Poll of 200,000 Predicted for State Primary Today

RIVERS-HARDMAN CONTEST HOLDING CENTER OF STAGE

Clear Weather and Heavy
Registration Portend 50-000 Greater Vote Than in Last Primary.

THREE OTHER RACES OF MAJOR INTEREST

Talmadge and Adams in Hard Fight for Farm
Post; Flynt-Carswell
Battle Develops Heat.

Clear weather conditions predicted for Georgia Wednesday, combined with a heavy registration of voters throughout the state, due to interest in national political affairs, portend a heavy vote in the state democratic primary to be held today to decide various races for state offices from governor on down the line.

Campaign managers issued their final statements Tuesday afternoon, all of them breathing confidence of victory, and all eyes are now turned toward the ballot box results, which will begin to trickle in with some accuracy after the polls close Wednesday. Definite lines on the probable outcome of the races will not be available until the first official returns begin to arrive. Old political observers expect a total vote of approximately 200,000, which is about 50,000 greater than the total vote polled in the last primary.

Interest of the voters is greater in three state house races than in any of the other battles. The race for governor, between Governor L. G. Hardman and his opponent, Senator E. D. Rivers, comes first. Close to this race in the interest that has developed is that for commissioner of agriculture between G. C. Adams, representative in the legislature from Newton county, and Eugene Talmadge, running for reelection. The third major race of interest is for secretary of state, with Judge J. J. Flynt, of Griffin, and George H. Carswell, present secretary of state, as contenders.

Clean-Cut Race.
In this election the race for governor differs from that of two years ago. This year it is a clean-cut contest between two candidates. Two years ago there were four candidates in the first primary, Dr. L. G. Hardman, of Commerce, John N. Holder, of Jefferson, both of Jackson county, George H. Carswell, of Irwin, and J. O. Wood, of Fulton. In the first primary Carswell and Wood were elimi-

VOTERS TO NAME COUNTY OFFICERS AT POLLS TODAY

Dozen Aspirants for Five Contested Positions in Fifth District and Fulton Ready for Opening.

BY HERMAN D. HANCOCK.
All bridges in the campaign for votes in the state democratic primary were officially crossed and burned Tuesday night when a dozen aspirants for the five contested positions in the fifth congressional district and Fulton county leveled their verbal artillery at Atlanta audiences for the last time prior to the take-off at 7 o'clock this morning, when the deluge of ballots to decide the nominees for various posts will begin. Polls open at 7 o'clock this morning, and those in the city limits will remain open until 7 o'clock tonight. Country districts in Fulton county will close the ballot boxes at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Every one of the contestants vied for votes at a rally held at the Georgia Avenue school under the auspices of the Third Ward Citizens' club. William C. State presided. Candidates reiterated their campaign promises and presented for the most part

CLARENCE MACKAY AND HIS DAUGHTER AGAIN RECONCILED

New York, September 11.—(AP)—The New York Daily News in a copyrighted article tomorrow will say that Clarence H. Mackay, head of the Postal Telegraph system, and his daughter, Mrs. Irving Berlin, have been reconciled after three years separation following her marriage to the song writer.

The reconciliation came beside the bier of Mrs. Louise Hungerford Mackay, mother of Mr. Mackay and Mrs. Berlin's grandmother, and was a fulfillment of Mrs. Mackay's wish, the News will say. It was marked by the father kissing Mrs. Berlin as she put her arms around his shoulders. Berlin was not present at the meeting, which took place at the Mackay home at Roslyn, L. I.

BY DICK HAWKINS.
Constitution Sports Editor.
Brae Burn Country Club, West Newton, Mass., September 11.—Robert Tyre Jones and Watts Gunn are telling each other funny stories tonight. Bob finished this afternoon with a whistle on the fact that he been clanked over set teeth all day Monday. Watts came in this morning with his fighting chin held high. Both of them qualified, Robert easily and Watts with a margin of two strokes.

George Voigt, that stellar golfer from North Hills, who last year was under fire of the U. S. G. A. for violating the amateur rules and later cleared of the charges, staged a brilliant battle in the stretch today to beat out Jimmy Johnston, of St. Paul, for medal honors in the qualifying round. The North Hills ace carded a 72 to add to his 71 of yesterday for a total of 143 to lead the field. Johnston turned in a 144. He shot a 73 today.

Bob came home today with a card of 74 to run his total to 151. Watts Gunn, who put up a great battle to stay in the running, finished with a 75 to add to his 80 of yesterday for a total of 155.

Don Mac, Alderwood, Ore., was third in the qualifying test with a score of 74-75-149. Ross Somerville, the Canadian champion, was next with a card of 75-78-153.

George Von Elm wrote 73-79-152
after his name at the end of the grind.
J. Wolcott Brown, who meets Bob in the first round of match play, was fourth in the qualifying test.

DEMOCRATS OUST BOLTERS IN FIGHT

Texas Party Session Is Scene of Near Riot as Rebels Attempt To Seize Banners of Parley.

Dallas, Texas, September 11.—(AP)— Amid the wildest scenes that ever marked a democratic meeting in Texas, delegates refusing to endorse the presidential candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, bolted the state democratic convention here today and organized a convention of their own.

Many of the state's most prominent political leaders swung their fists in a free-for-all fight that ensued when former Governor Oscar Colquhoun, avowed anti-Smithite, sprang to his feet a few minutes after the convention opened and shouted:

Loyal Democrats.
"Let all loyal democrats retire."
Eyes were blackened and noses bled as the insurgents, trooping from the hall amid jeers and shouts of "get out republicans," attempted to snatch standards from delegations of loyalists. Unarmed officers broke up a half-dozen melee before order finally was restored and about 300 insurgents repaired to their meeting place on the front steps of the Fair Park auditorium.

The bolt was precipitated when a motion was introduced demanding that only those delegations loyal to Governor Smith be seated. The motion was an anti-climax to the action of the state executive committee yesterday, when anti-Smith delegations from five counties were notified that they would not be seated in the convention.

Meeting apart from the regular democratic group, the Hoover supporters elected former State Senator Thomas
B. Love temporary chairman, named

SCHOOL MEMBERS REJECT PROPOSAL TO LET CONTRACTS

Initial Steps Taken for Supervision of Building
Work by Officials of Education Department.

Rejection of recommendations that contracts for two school projects be awarded to the Fleming Construction company; initial steps looking toward erection of about 40 additions to various schools of the Atlanta public school system at a cost of about $800-000 under supervision of the administration department on a cost plus basis; disclosure of an alleged attempt of plumbing contractors to "fix" the bids on plumbing in schools to be erected from funds supplied from the 1926 bond issue, and a decision to prevent use of board of education stationery except on official board business featured the regular September meeting of the board of education Tuesday afternoon. The session was held at the city council chamber.

Only two of the proposals offered by Dr. R. M. Eubanks, acting chairman of the committee, received the sanction of the committee, and they were erection of an addition to the George W. Adair school for $41,800, and Forrest Avenue school for $38-352.93. Only $40,000 will be utilized from bond funds on the Adair project, the rest being supplied from insurance.

Despite an effort on the part of the contact body to place the board on record as favoring completion of administration of school funds from the 1926 issue by awarding contracts, the board took the position that bids were excessive in three instances, and will confer with City Attorney James L. Mayson in an effort to initiate a program by which the additions can be constructed "at a cheaper cost and in line with erection of other structures of similar nature."

Recommended by Ritchie.
Action of the board followed recommendations by Raymond R. Ritchie, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of business affairs, and Willis
A. Sutton, superintendent. Members of the G. Lloyd Preacher organization, architects, also declared the bids were out of line on the cost per cubic foot.

Rejected low bids were on the Goldsmith and Georgia Avenue schools.
Bids on an addition to the Commercial High school also were rejected, and the architect was instructed to revamp the drawings to bring the total cost within the $100,000 set up for

MRS. M. C. DANIEL, OF QUITMAN, DIES

Mother of Royal and Raymond Daniel, Prominent Georgians, Succumbs to Stroke.

Quitman, Ga., September 11.—(Special).—Mrs. M. C. Daniel, known to Masons as "Mother Daniel" because her son, Raymond Daniel, is grand master of Masons of Georgia, passed away this afternoon at 6:30 at the residence of her son, Royal Daniel, editor of the Quitman Free Press.

Mrs. Daniel was stricken with paralysis six months ago and her condition has been desperate since.

The funeral will be conducted in Quitman Wednesday and interment will be here. Her brother, Mel Wilkinson, of Atlanta, accompanied by Raymond Daniel, reached her bedside this afternoon.

WINDSTORM TURNS DIRIGIBLE OVER; IT LANDS SAFELY

Detroit, September 11.—(AP)—The semi-rigid dirigible Puritan, owned by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company, of Akron, Ohio, was safely moored at the Ford airport here tonight after riding a terrific wind and rain storm that broke as the ship approached the city.

The ship, carrying a crew of two and four passengers, was tossed about by the winds for 35 minutes, completely turning over once. When the storm suddenly lifted the Puritan was able to make its way to the airport.
Thousands of persons attracted by the ship's struggles gathered at the scene, necessitating the calling out of extra details of police.

First Photograph of Sonia Norida To Whom C. S. Carnes Sent Thousands

Sonia Norida as she posed for The Constitution Tuesday morning in Hollywood at her hotel. This is the first picture to be printed of the Norwegian girl who aspired to stardom in the film world and who believed that Clinton S. Carnes with his money would enable her to realize her lofty ambitions. This photograph was sent to Atlanta from Los Angeles Tuesday over the telephoto wires of The Associated Press at The Constitution's request. Miss Norida is living at a Los Angeles hotel with Mrs. Louise Pope, formerly of Atlanta.

Lois Griffin Tells Story Of Financing by Carnes

BY MONROE LATHROP.
Los Angeles, September 11.—While Mrs. Pope was denying in her Hollywood hotel that she knew Lois Griffin, the other girl whose movie career was financed by Carnes, Miss Griffin herself, a mile away, admitted that she had a similar business arrangement with Carnes that Miss Norida has and that Mrs. Pope was largely responsible for her securing it.

Negotiations for the contract were opened before Mrs. Pope entered the picture, Miss Griffin, who is working in Hollywood under the name of June Gilmore, said, but it was after the Atlanta, she said. "He was looked up to as one of the wealthiest men in town. Many a time my employer has said he wished he had as much money as Carnes, and I used to sit back and think it must be grand to have as fine a home as he had."

Miss Griffin left Atlanta for Hollywood in December, 1927, arriving here
Christmas eve. She, as is the case

SOLICITOR BOYKIN ASSUMES CHARGE OF CARNES HUNT

Former Treasurer Is Indicted by Grand Jury on Charge of Embezzlement of $69,000.

$50,000 BOND SET FOR MISSING MAN

Shortage of Former Official of Baptist Board Is Now Expected To Reach
Total of $1,500,000.

Indications that the total shortage of Clinton S. Carnes, vanished treasurer of the home mission board of the Southern Baptist convention, may total as high as $1,500,000, instead of the $1,000,000 as estimated originally, came Tuesday as the Fulton county grand jury indicted the missing man for embezzlement and Solicitor-General John A. Boykin took personal charge of the nationwide search being conducted for the fugitive.

While the grand jury was acting in the case, The Constitution's correspondent in Los Angeles located Miss Mamie Lois Griffin working about a mile away from the hotel where Mrs.
Louise Pope and Sonia Norida are stopping. Miss Griffin was found under the name of June Gilmore. She contradicted statements of Mrs. Pope that she did not know Lois, stating that it was Mrs. Pope who finally interested Carnes, although Miss Griffin said she knew Carnes before she met Mrs. Pope.

Information that Carnes obtained a total of $800,000 through the flotation of notes in the name of the mission board, the sum of $140,000 through the sale of stocks and bonds of the board; $69,000 which he is alleged to have transferred from the mission fund to his own private accounts, together with pecuniations totalling between $300,000 and $400,000 from the building fund of the mission board, was revealed Tuesday by attaches of the solicitor-general's office and officials of the mission board after the indictment specifically charging Carnes with the embezzlement of the $69,000 was returned by the grand jury.

Mission board officials would not go into details concerning the apparent shortage in the building fund accounts, a hitherto unpublished item.
It was a little too early in the audit,
they said, to fix the exact amount.
Though admitting it apparently was between $300,000 and $400,000.

With Solicitor-General Boykin directing the presentation of evidence a parade of mission board officials, Representatives of Ernest & Ernst, auditors employed by the board, filed into the grand jury room Tuesday morning to

TEXTILE STRIKERS TURN DOWN OFFER

New Bedford, Mass., September 11. (AP)—"Entirely unacceptable" was the answer today of the textile council's strike committee to a proposal of the New Bedford Manufacturers' association that labor accept both the 10 per cent wage cut and the labor specialization plan, and try to make up the loss through the greater earning possibilities of the specialization plan.

About 25,000 persons are on strike against the wage reduction. The textile council's attitude was made known in a statement saying: "The terms of settlement suggested by the Manufacturers' association are entirely unacceptable. There appears no possibility of avoiding a prolonged continuation of the struggle, and the strikers are urged to renew their energies for waging a successful outcome. The strike committee have absolutely no apologies to make to anyone for the present situation." The proposal for a mediation committee made last night resulted from an effort by a mediation committee of citizens to find in the specialization plan drafted by Leonard P. Frieder a basis for strike settlement. The citizens' committee obtained assurances from labor that the plan would be supported if the wage cut was rescinded.

Mrs. Charlotte M. Fletcher ATLANTA BEAUTY CHARGES CRUELTY TO MATE Divorces Husband in Reno

MRS. CHARLOTTE MEADOR FLETCHER

Mrs. Charlotte Meador Fletcher, Atlanta beauty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meador, of 20 Fourteenth street, N. E., was divorced Monday in Reno, Nev., from George M. Fletcher, New York cotton broker, according to press dispatches received here Tuesday. Mrs. Fletcher, a member of the Junior league here, was one of Atlanta's most popular belles prior to her marriage on March 8, 1922.

Mrs. Fletcher took a leading part in the Junior league fables, and a few years ago was offered a professional engagement in one of Ned Wayburn's companies. Her family is one of the most prominent in Georgia, her ancestors having been identified with the early history of the state.

CUSTODY OF CHILDREN. IS DIVIDED BY COURT.
Reno, Nev., September 11.—(Special.)—Charlotte Meador Fletcher was divorced here today from George M. Fletcher, New York cotton broker. They married in Atlanta March 8, 1922, and have two sons, custody of whom is divided between mother and father. Fletcher is to pay his wife from $100 to $200 a month for the care and support of the children until they are of age, or until she remarries.

Fletcher, his wife charged, neglected her. He would stay away nights and on occasion several days at a time, called her names, she told the court, used violence on occasions. Once, she said, he struck her in the eye and the next morning instead of being sorry, said he was only sorry he had not blackened both eyes. On New Year's eve of 1928, when they were in Atlanta, Mrs. Fletcher testified, her husband tore nearly her entire dress from her.

HALL IS LEADING IN MISSISSIPPI RUN-OFF PRIMARY

Jackson, Miss., September 11.—(AP) In today's Mississippi runoff primary Robert S. Hall, of Hattiesburg, was leading his opponent, T. Price Dale, of Columbia, by more than 2,000 votes on returns from 89 of the 332 precincts in the sixth district race for the United States house of representatives. Hall had 6,375 against Dale's 4,090.

On the same returns in the same district Kim Watkins had 6,282 and Julius Moody 4,320 in the contest for highway commissioner. Chancellor V. A. Griffith, of Gulfport, held a broad lead over Judge W. J. Pack on returns from 90 of the 537 precincts for the state supreme court judgeship of the second judicial district. Griffith's vote was 8,047 against Pack's 4,047, but most of these figures were received from precincts adjacent to Griffith's home county.

Strange Malady Affected Emory Singers in Europe

Some interesting sidelights on the recent trip of the Emory Glee club to Europe are contained in a letter recently received from Lyman R. Allyn, son of the Rev. H. S. Allyn, of 1025 Greenwood avenue, who was on the tour with the club.

Allyn tells of a strange malady which affected more than half the members of the club shortly after their arrival in Amsterdam. The illness' chief manifestation was a throat irritation which made singing impossible and on one night only 13 of the club's personnel were able to appear on the stage for their concert in a theater. On the following night, at the urgent request of the manager of the theater, the number was brought up to 20, but many of them, Allyn says, merely appeared and were unable to sing. They later learned, from doctors, that the sickness was never serious in nature and was common with visitors to the city, it being occasioned, doctors explained, largely by the air from the numerous canals.

The young man, who is a senior at Emory, also told of an interesting trip, made by himself and four companions, aside from the regular itinerary of the club. Allyn, Chess Lagoromarine, George Donk and James Pollard left the group in Paris and made a hurried trip through Switzerland, Germany and Belgium, rejoining their companions in Amsterdam in time for the concert there.

In this little jaunt the boys visited Lucerne and Basel, in Switzerland, Strasbourg, in France; Freiburg, Heidelberg and Colon, in Germany; and Antwerp, in Belgium.

Mr. Allyn stated that his son is not returning with the club, but is staying in France, where he plans to take a three-months course at Grenoble university, returning to Emory for the latter part of the school year to graduate with his class at Emory.

PAVING CONTRACT LET FOR HIGHWAY IN WARE COUNTY

Waycross, Ga., September 11.—(Special.)—D. A. Woodard, C. L. Mattox and J. D. Mitchell, commissioners of Ware county, have signed an agreement with the state highway board whereby the highway from Wareboro to the ten and a quarter milepost and thence on to Fairfax will be paved. It is specified that the base shall be not less than 8 inches of compacted Florida lime rock and that the top surfacing shall be of asphalt.

Within the next ten days the county will start the grading and structural work and this is to count as its one-fourth of the entire cost. Agreement had already been reached with the state highway board for paving in the same manner the road from Vaycross to the Brantley county line. When these projects are completed all of route 50 will be paved in Ware county except from Fairfax to the Atkinson county line, a distance of approximately 5 miles.

SYNAGOGUE BUYS SITE FOR $100,000

Purchase of a parcel of property at 406 Washington street by the Shearith Israel congregation was announced Tuesday by Sidney Zimmerman, president of the synagogue, revealing tentative plans for erection of a $100,000 religious edifice.

According to Mr. Zimmerman, the property was purchased for the purpose of constructing a large synagogue and Talmud Torah, where Hebrew education will be given the members' children. Preliminary plans have already been prepared by the architects along lines that will make the new religious structure one of the most beautiful synagogues in the south, Mr. Zimmerman stated.

The proposed synagogue site has a frontage of 107 feet on Washington street and extends back nearly 200 feet, embracing what is considered a double lot. The purchase price was given as $13,000.

The present house of worship of the Shearith Israel congregation is situated at 302 Hunter street, where for 24 years, since organization of the congregation, it has served this purpose. For the past 18 years Rabbi Tobias Geffen has occupied the pulpit. Under the guidance of Rabbi Geffen, who is regarded as an outstanding leader of strict orthodox Jewry in America, the congregation has grown steadily in membership. Enlargement of the seating capacity will be a feature of the proposed new edifice.

ATLANTIC STORM INJURES SAILORS

Jacksonville, September 11.—(AP)—The three members of the crew of the freighter Lake Inglenook, who were injured when they were swept off their feet and dashed against a steel bulkhead by huge waves that rolled over the deck of the ship while it struggled against a strong northeast blow encountered 110 miles southeast of here yesterday, were "doing nicely" at Riverside hospital tonight, physicians reported.

The men were taken ashore at Mayport this morning and brought to the hospital here after the Lake Inglenook was prevented from docking last night because of the rough sea. Their condition is not serious.

Warm Sunshine To Beam Today On County Polls

Fine weather is forecast for today, state and county primary day, by C. F. von Hermann, United States meteorologist. Very few clouds will flutter over this section, and the temperature will hop up the scale a wee bit, Mr. von Hermann said.

"If getting out the vote depends on the weather, the people interested in the primary should have little kick," the weatherman said. Temperatures today will range from 65 to 85 degrees, the maximum, to top Tuesday's by one degree, the weatherman said. No rain is in sight for Atlanta, although a sub-tropical disturbance is developing southwest of Cuba, Mr. von Hermann said. The weather bureau said it will be several days before the disturbance takes definite shape with respect to this section.

MILITARY POLICE QUELL UPRISING AMONG SPANIARDS

Madrid, September 11.—(United News.)—Military police continued tonight an intensive round-up of oppositionists after the exposure of a sensational plot to overthrow the regime of Primo de Rivera, colorful and iron-fisted dictator of Spain.

More than 300 persons—including a number of prominent former officials and newspapermen—have been arrested, it was officially announced today. More arrests are anticipated as investigations reveal further ramifications of the far-flung plan for a political revolt.

It is expected that as a result of tonight's meeting this work will be done at once. The meeting tonight attracted a crowd which filled the Baldwin county courthouse to capacity.

WOMAN IS BITTEN BY PET SQUIRREL; TREATED AT GRADY

Mrs. L. P. Blackburn, of 80 East-side avenue, was treated at Grady hospital Tuesday afternoon for bites inflicted on her right hand by a pet squirrel.

Mrs. Blackburn told doctors that she had had the little animal for some time and had never been molested by it before. But that it suddenly turned upon her as she was playing with it Tuesday morning. She gave the wounds no attention at the time, she said, and it was not until some hours later that she went to the hospital when the hand began to pain her. She was treated and sent home with instructions to watch the pet for any signs of rabies.

DEMOCRATS PLAN TO GREET NOMINEE

United States Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, vice presidential nominee, will be welcomed to Atlanta September 18, when he comes here to deliver an address on national campaign issues, by a special committee composed of prominent democrats, it was announced Tuesday by John R. Slater, state democratic campaign manager.

Judge John S. Candler has been named general chairman of the arrangements and entertainment committee, and, in addition, has been selected to preside at the auditorium meeting which will be addressed by Senator Robinson. Judge Candler will requisition the aid of many leading democrats in working out the details of the rally.

"It is our confident belief that the national democratic rally at the auditorium on the evening of September 18 will be one of the largest and most enthusiastic demonstrations ever held in Georgia," said Manager Slater Tuesday.

"We expect Senator Robinson's speech to attract party leaders from all sections, and we are equally confident that his address will give to the democratic campaign an impetus that will result in a sweeping victory for the presidential ticket in Georgia."

Senator Robinson will deliver only two addresses in Georgia—the first at Savannah on the evening of the fourteenth and the second in Atlanta on the eighteenth. The democracy of Chatham county, where he is planning a memorable demonstration for Senator Robinson, and already have been assured the presence of hundreds of party adherents from every quarter of the coastal section.

RIVERS' BACKERS THANKED FOR AID

Appreciation of the "wonderful loyalty" and "unselfish enthusiasm" of thousands of people who have worked in behalf of State Senator E. D. Rivers in his race for governor is expressed by Senator Rivers in a statement issued Tuesday on the eve of election day.

Senator Rivers said his fight has been waged "against millions of dollars" and against "the most insidious and persistent mud slinging witnessed in the state in recent years" but not always remembering and ever appreciating the confidence of a sweeping and decisive victory at the polls Wednesday.

The cordial reception accorded him on his speaking tour is mentioned by Senator Rivers in his statement of thanks and he also declares that the need for the aid of many leading democrats in working out the details of the rally.

"It is with great regret that I find the campaign ending without having had the opportunity to visit some of the counties of the state. I have exerted every human effort possible to reach each county and in more than 130 speeches have carried the message of a constructive program for the development of our natural resources, the consolidation of our departments, the giving of equal educational opportunities, and a specific program for good roads, together with other constructive measures direct to the voters face to face.

And from the reception given this message in the large number of counties visited, I am confident that the people of this state will overwhelmingly stamp their approval on the type of campaign we have conducted in facing the people open and above board and dealing with the people direct rather than through paid speakers and workers.

"It is not amiss that the people bear in mind the fact that in all of this campaign, we have conducted our fight on the highest plane without personalities and solely on the basis of a constructive program for Georgia. On the contrary, it is conspicuous that in all of the paid statements and paid speeches and circular propaganda, the campaign of the governor has been unable to point either to a single constructive accomplishment or to a proposed constructive policy. Thousands of dollars have been spent in an effort to assassinate my character but friends who have known me throughout the years have repelled those assaults so overwhelmingly until these mud-slinging tactics in themselves insure my election.

"My campaign manager, Hon. Roy V. Harris, has worked ceaselessly and solely upon the basis of friendship, as have others directly connected with our campaign management. In large measure the results of this campaign are to be attributed to this efficient management and I gratefully acknowledge their splendid efforts.

"It is apparent from my visits over the state that Georgia will have a progressive and cooperative general assembly for the next term and it will be my purpose to cooperate in every possible way to the end that we may have the most constructive administration possible for the progress of the state.

"This campaign has been a fight against millions of dollars and the most insidious and persistent mud-slinging that has been witnessed in recent years designed to assassinate my character. I thank my friends for their loyalty in repelling these personal assaults and I wish to admonish our friends over the state to be on guard against last-minute mud-slinging propaganda and against the use of sheer money power at the polls on election day.

"The press of the state have been considerate and fair, for the most part, and I wish to express my genuine appreciation for this attitude. Being in position to wield a wonderful influence, it is commendable and the character and caliber of the press of the state is such as to give to the people the fair and impartial development of our political campaign. The press has been a wonderful help in enabling us to carry our message to the people, in that we have not been financially able to patronize the advertising columns as liberal or as generous as we would have liked.

"Hundreds of my friends over the state have contributed to my campaign in varying amounts, for the most part ranging from $1 to $100. These contributions, supplementing my own funds, have enabled us to complete the campaign without either soliciting or accepting funds from any other source and I am ending the campaign just as I started it without getting under any obligations personally, financially or politically, to any mercenary corporations, departments of the state government or other people who would have any motive whatever for assisting us save in a spirit of unselfish friendship.

"We started this campaign without making any promises for appointments or patronage of any kind whatsoever and as the campaign closes even say with a degree of pride that we are still unhampered, unpledged and without any promises whatsoever of appointments or patronage to anybody or anything. Our only promises are open platform speeches to the people of this state. To this we expect to adhere both in letter and in spirit.

"With perfect confidence in the sense of justice of the people of this grand old state and our program of progress, I have no doubt as to my overwhelming election on tomorrow."

Georgians Honored In Appointments At Navy Academy

Midshipman commander for the entire undergraduate body, the highest position in the training regiment, was awarded to Charles E. Trescott, of Ohio.

These appointments are made on the basis of military efficiency and aptitude.

Charles Fortescue, 'Foe of Lightning,' Visitor in Atlanta

Charles Fortescue—sworn foe of lightning—is a visitor in Atlanta. Fighting lightning is Mr. Fortescue's profession just now. It probably will be for the next several years, for lightning is a worthy foe and hard to conquer.

Mr. Fortescue is one of the most prominent of the electrical authorities on the staff of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Connected with the company for the past 30 years, he now is in charge of two Westinghouse stations in Tennessee which are assembling massed data to determine the effect of waves or "surges" of voltage resulting from lightning striking electrical transmission lines.

"Lightning is the greatest bugbear in the transmission of electrical power," he said Tuesday. "It halts transmission, disrupts service, causes loss in revenue to the company and confusion and economic waste to the public that depends on the power for service."

Westinghouse for several years has been seeking methods to determine the effect of lightning and of preventing interference with power transmission. We developed a kymograph, which measures the lightning surge on high tension wires. Though we were first in our field to make such a graphic measurement, we still were unable to measure duration of the surges and thus were handicapped in assembling data for determining methods of eliminating lightning interference.

Then a short time ago we acquired the patent of a Swedish inventor who developed a modified form of dufour oscillograph by which we could get an actual photographic record of lightning surges. To assemble data on lightning, we naturally picked the spot where it was most plentiful—and that was in Tennessee on a transmission line between Tallahassee and Maryville. We established a station on either side of the Chilhowee Ridge, one at Chatah and the other near Chilhowee.

"The stations were established in mid-July, and since then we have been constantly watching storms and their effects. Storms this summer have not proved as severe as we expected, and we were able to secure only two good photographic records of surges, neither of which was severe. The stations will shut down at the end of summer and reopen next April, when we will again be on the job to gather material to help us in devising methods to check lightning interference."

Mr. Fortescue said that, given time to assemble enough data, Westinghouse experts hope to reduce the effect of lightning to a negligible one. A third observation station will be opened in the spring in Illinois, he added.

Mr. Fortescue arrived in Atlanta Tuesday from Birmingham and will be here through today as a guest of H. A. Coles, district manager of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

PETRY DENIES RIVERS FOUGHT LABOR BILLS

Recent statement by R. S. Elrod, Atlanta labor leader, that State Senator E. D. Rivers "did not assist labor" in its efforts to have enacted "certain remedial legislation" and "implying that he was solely responsible for the defeat of these measures" did not have the approval of the executive board of the Georgia Federation of Labor, according to a statement made Tuesday by C. E. Petry, president of that organization.

"Mr. Elrod signed the official report released by the Georgia Federation of Labor, which he is now trying to discredit," Mr. Petry said. "If the charge he now makes could have been established as a fact it would have been included in the official statement."

Mr. Petry stated further that the author of the bill in question had assured the federation that Senator Rivers did favor the labor measure.

"I prefer to accept his word rather than the opinion of Mr. Elrod, especially since the authors of all the measures mentioned, with one possible exception, are now supporting Senator Rivers."

Mr. Petry also declared that neither the senate nor house journals, since Senator Rivers has been a member of the Georgia legislature, show that Senator Rivers ever opposed any of the measures supported by organized labor of Georgia.

Mr. Petry said his position as to the Elrod statement has the indorsement of the five vice presidents of the Georgia Federation of Labor, A. S. Nance, Atlanta; R. F. Scott, Macon; L. R. Purlick, Augusta; George L. Googe, Savannah, and John R. Jones, Columbus.

A New Leadership

WE told you last week of the new Packard Standard Eight, the latest addition to Packard's line of fine and luxurious motor cars.

Now we announce the improved models of the Packard Custom Eight. These are offered in nine beautiful body types on the new 140" wheelbase chassis. The prices range from $3175 for the fleet and powerful Runabout to $3850 for the distinguished Sedan-Limousine (at the factory).

The original Packard Eight was the first prominent American car to offer the eight-in-line or straight eight motor and four wheel brakes.

Today finds four wheel brakes used almost universally while twenty of this country's makers are producing straight eight motor cars. In Europe the straight eight has displaced all other types of eight-cylinder engines.

We recount this because it is indicative of Packard's engineering leadership and because it impresses that a straight eight motor car is the safest one to buy as far as depreciation is concerned.

And now the new Packard Custom Eight takes over a new engineering leadership for it offers something no other car in all the world possesses—the Packard Shock Absorbing System.

This combination of new inventions is almost magical in its effects. It makes the new Packard Eight not only the easiest riding car in the world but also the safest. This is so true that we would state it even more positively if we could find words to do so.

The new cars are available in all that the world of beautiful colors and fine fabrics affords. Their beauty of line and matchless riding quality are attended by the most luxurious upholstery even Packard can produce.

The new Packard Custom Eight has very definitely assumed a new leadership and especially in everything pertaining to comfort and safety in motor cars. We want to demonstrate this to you—and under any conditions that your ownership would ever call for. May we do so? You will be under no obligation to us in any way.

We cannot conceive of your riding in one of the new cars without wanting to have one. Your used car will help pay for it and then if you prefer to buy out of income you will find our payment plan a most agreeable one.

W. A. THOMAS DEFENDS RECORD OF TALMADGE

The record of Eugene Talmadge as commissioner of agriculture is defended in a statement made public Tuesday by William A. Thomas, 1510 Citizens and Southern Bank building. He expressed surprise that opposition to Talmadge developed "so early," stating that the commissioner went into office only 14 months ago.

The statement of Mr. Thomas is as follows: "A word in behalf of the farmers of Georgia who are existing, not living, in a condition of practical serfdom. It is generally conceded by thinking people that it is high time to 'set up and take notice' when anyone begins the wholesale use of superlatives. I say this in view of my just having seen in a newspaper the charge by Mr. Adams that Eugene Talmadge, our present commissioner of agriculture, is 'arrogant, domineering, ignorant, conceited, overbearing, selfish, bickering, and quarrelsome.' My God! Think of it! I doubt the truthfulness of this statement, however, because there are too many superlatives, because of its source, and the fact that I know Mr. Talmadge too well to believe it, but thank heaven if it can be possible."

"Let us rejoice if it is true that Mr. Talmadge is this type of man because Georgia does not need a humble, smiling, weakling, ostrich-necked, bootlicking, timid 'I'll-do-just-as-you-say' type of man to resist the fertilizer trust which admittedly, to a greater or lesser degree, depending on the type of commissioner we have, sells worthless fertilizers; which trust has controlled our agricultural department for years to the detriment of our heroic farmers who are trying to remain on their poverty-stricken knees in the face of stupendous odds."

"I am surprised that anyone would come out against Mr. Talmadge so early. He went into office just 14 months ago, made good all promises, and in spite of conditions then existing has saved the tax payers of Georgia $170,000 alone by reducing there-to-for vote-getting parasitic jobs that dotted the entire state. I am not here mentioning the benefits he has caused the farmers to realize, but only refer to the tax money saved in this one instance."

"Here is some circumstantial evidence that is real. On practically every other telephone pole in Georgia there is a large portrait of Mr. Talmadge's opponent; in every voting precinct there has been distributed Adams' pamphlets, and on the side of the Piedmont hotel in Atlanta, one of the most expensive in the south, there is stretched a giant sign indicating that Adams' headquarters occupies a good portion of one of the entire floors of that hotel. Such a procedure of campaigning would reasonably cost, together with the undercurrent that goes unspoken with it, from $50,000 to $75,000.

"Now, I ask the real toiling farmers of Georgia whether it is more reasonable to suspect that G. C. Adams, who is just one Newton county, Georgia farmer, so they say, is paying this expense himself or whether the gentlemen who collect around $25,000,000 annually from Georgia farmers for so-called fertilizer are paying the bill for brother Adams?"

"It would seem that it is more logical to keep Mr. Talmadge at least another term before we love him too much, and in the meantime, if he is the kind of man they say he is, we will watch the grafters' wince as Talmadge smashes around $25,000,000."

FOUR GEORGIANS ATTEND MEETING OF HEALTH BODIES

The coordinated annual meetings of the Southern Tuberculosis Association, convention today at Biloxi, Miss., will attract at least four Georgians who are numbered among the "great white plague."

A. P. Faulkner, managing director of the Georgia Tuberculosis Association, which also numbers Dr. E. W. Glidden, superintendent of the Alto sanatorium, Miss Mildred Manson, health educational director of the Georgia Tuberculosis Association, and Dr. J. A. White, vice president of the same body.

Mr. Faulkner will preside at the afternoon session of the tuberculosis group on Saturday, September 15. This session will be devoted to the topic, "Utilization of Small Amounts of Money in County Programs."

Miss Manson is on the program of the so-called meet, she having been assigned the topic of "Seal Scales Methods," a vital arm of the fight against tuberculosis.

Dr. Glidden will be concerned in the programs of both the tuberculosis and the sanatorium conventions, and it is understood that he will tell of the development of the state tuberculosis sanatorium at Alto, near Gainesville.

UPSHAW MANAGERS EXPECT LARGE VOTE

Confidence that former Congressman W. D. Upshaw will win his race against Congressman Leslie J. Steele in the fifth district is expressed by E. M. McGee, chairman, and Robert E. Edwards, secretary, of the Upshaw campaign committee in a statement issued Tuesday.

The statement follows in part: "Information from every possible source convinces us that Fulton county will go for Upshaw by at least 2,000 majority; while four different candidates for DeKalb county offices who have covered the entire county have voluntarily told us that DeKalb will be found in the Upshaw column by a safe majority."

"Douglas is declared by the most experienced political observers in the county to be at least two to one for Upshaw; while we have an even break in Campbell and Rockledge. We believe Mr. Upshaw's popular vote will be the largest he has ever received."

Mr. Upshaw issued the following statement: "Tonight brings to a close the hardest, happiest campaign I have ever made. Hard, first, because my conscience has forced me to fight with the title head of my party—the party to which I have been undeviatingly loyal for a generation. Hard, also because this contest is not only a part of my life but of the life of my people. It is a part of the life of the anti-Smith forces that it costs money to run a campaign. As a result not a dollar has come to me from any reform organization. Here I stand, there from a few individuals a beautiful spirit of loyal financial support has come, but not enough to conduct the vigorous and many-sided campaign which the unusual situation has called for."

Partly for this reason, but chiefly because I think the practice should be absolutely abandoned, the public will not find paid workers at the polls soliciting votes. I am a happy camper because I have been increasingly clear in my conviction of duty done."

"Standing where I have always stood on the great question of national morality, proudly conscious that I gave energetic, efficient service to this district when I was in congress, I feel better prepared from my varied experience and nationwide acquaintance to serve my people in the city and district better than ever."

"I feel, therefore, that I can say of this unusual campaign in a paraphrase of the words of Paul: 'I have fought a good fight—I have kept the faith—and now there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness which shall not be taken away from me.'"

candy manufacturing and distributing enterprise in Atlanta, known as the Betty Lou College Candy company. The concern gained wide popularity under the management of Mrs. Pope, who was characterized as agile and energetic as a business woman, but exhibiting a flighty and oftentimes distracted attitude, came to an end about three years later, it is reported by persons having business relations with Mrs. Pope at the time. Mrs. Pope was thought to have had other business ventures before materialization of the scheme to promote with Carnes two new screen headlines at the expense of the latter.

"CLEAN RACE" RUN BY JUDGE HUNT, STATEMENT SAYS

Judge J. J. Hunt, of Griffin, candidate for state pension commissioner, issued a statement Tuesday in which he declared that he has "run a clean race" for this office and that there is no vital issue involved in the race between him and his opponent, Captain John W. Clark.

The statement of Judge Hunt is as follows:

"On the eve of the state primary I make the statement that I am proud that I have run a clean race for pension commissioner. I have not disparaged my opponent's record as a soldier or his honesty as a man. On that score we are equals."

"There is practically no issue between us but simply a question, namely, which one of us is best fitted and most capable of having the lawmakers enact legislation universally called for by the people of Georgia who demand a remedy for existing evils in the pension law and its administration. These evils are known by practically all the people. That is the question for voters to decide on their consciences. The state's honor and justice to old soldiers is involved."

SCHOOLS AT GRIFFIN OPENED ON MONDAY

Griffin, Ga., September 11.—(Special.)—The Griffin public schools opened yesterday morning with appropriate ceremonies at the high school and with short exercises at the general grammar schools. All the schools in the city report that they are overcrowded and that additional teachers and classrooms will have to be obtained.

The exercises at the high school were under the direction of Professor J. H. West, principal, and included addresses by the Rev. Malcolm Williamson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; Colonel W. H. Connor, representing the board of education, and Mrs. C. R. Walker, president of the local Parent-Teacher association.

An address was delivered by Lewis Beck, of the sophomore class, in which he welcomed the incoming freshmen to the high school and offered them the cooperation and help of the upper classes. The response was given by Harris Prothro, of the freshman class.

FAIR COTTON CONTEST ENTRY DATE ADVANCED

Due to continued rain and lateness of the cotton crop, the closing date for entries in the single stalk of cotton show, to be exhibited at the South-eastern fair during the week of September 29-October 6, has been changed from September 15 to September 25. It was learned Tuesday afternoon from officials in charge of the exhibit.

The single stalk of cotton contest is sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation in cooperation with the National Fertilizer association. A cash prize of $1,500 will be given for the best stalk of cotton in the southern states with a cash prize of $500 for the best stalk exhibited at the Southeastern fair. Nineteen other cash prizes, ranging from $250 to $5, will be given to the next best stalks shown here, with similar amounts being given for the best stalks shown at Dallas, Texas, and Memphis, Tenn.

The contest is open to anyone in the southern states and is said to be a practical experiment conducted in the interest of cotton growing in the south. There is only one important rule, which is that the single stalk must be selected from a field of not less than one acre of cotton.

Exhibits will be held at the Southeastern fair, in Atlanta, the State fair of Texas, in Dallas, and the Tri-State fair in Memphis, Tenn., and the best single stalks from each of these shows will compete for the national prize of $1,500.

Cotton grown in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama or Florida will be shown at the Southeastern fair, while cotton grown in Missouri, Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana and Tennessee will be shown at Memphis, and cotton grown in Texas and Oklahoma will be on exhibit at Dallas.

Many farmers from all sections of the southeast have written the agricultural foundation officials of Sears, Roebuck & Co. asking for an extension of the closing date, due to the cotton in this section not being as far advanced as in former years.

HARDMAN DENIES CHAMLEE'S HELP

Denial that A. S. Chamlee has handled any money for the Hardman campaign headquarters in the present race for governor between Governor L. G. Hardman and State Senator E. D. Rivers was expressed Tuesday by Mr. Chamlee in a statement made in a letter to Roy V. Harris, manager of the Rivers campaign and made public through the Hardman campaign headquarters.

In his letter Mr. Chamlee quotes a recent statement of Mr. Harris as follows:

"Again we call the attention of the people of this state to the shameful effort now made to debauch their electorate. In another room the governor's famed campaign manager and a recent candidate for governor, Beck Chamlee, sees the men from different counties and pays them in currency."

Exception to this statement was taken by Mr. Chamlee in his letter, part of which is included in the Hardman headquarters statement, which is as follows:

"A. S. Chamlee, who recently withdrew from the contest for the democratic nomination for governor of Georgia, and who was charged in a statement issued by the Rivers headquarters last night with high crimes and misdemeanors in his alleged efforts to aid the Hardman campaign, addressed a letter to Roy V. Harris, manager for Senator Rivers, in which he clearly and definitely clears the record. After quoting the charges made in the Rivers' statement, Mr. Chamlee said:

"I wish to characterize that statement as an infamous falsehood. I have not handled a dollar of money in this campaign for any candidate, either legitimately or illegitimately. I have not spent a dime of anybody's money in this campaign seeking to influence a single vote in Georgia, and as far as my seeing the men from different counties and paying them in currency is concerned, as you state over your signature, I wish to characterize that statement in its entirety as untrue."

"I think you owe it to the people of Georgia to explain why you deliberately and out of the whole truth circulate an infamous falsehood like this, and I ask you in the name of common honesty, decency and truthfulness to retract the falsehood you circulated in last night's Journal."

"The Rivers' statement to which Mr. Chamlee objects is on a par with various charges that have been made by his campaign headquarters and by himself, but it is currently reported in political circles today that through a slip up in the publicity department this statement was released a day earlier than was intended. It was the original purpose to release it on Tuesday night so that neither Governor Hardman nor Mr. Chamlee would have the opportunity of making a proper reply. It really made but little difference. Governor Hardman's reputation for honesty and fairness in politics as well as in business is so well known that no one would believe for a moment that he would permit the improper expenditure of a single dollar."

"We have issued no extravagant claims as to the result of tomorrow's voting. We believe that the people generally agree with our belief that Governor Hardman will be re-nominated by a more substantial majority than he received two years ago. He is running this time against the same forces that opposed him two years ago. The only difference is that John H. Hollis is in the background in this year whereas two years ago he elected to head his own ticket. The issues are practically the same as they were two years ago. Governor Hardman has succeeded in putting before the people of the state the conditions that exist in the highway department. He has succeeded in proving the most reckless extravagance and waste. Give him another term in this position and the job he so well began."

CIVIL WAR BAYONET IS FOUND BURIED IN DECATUR YARD

A grim reminder of the days when Atlanta was torn asunder by the advance of the confederate hosts has been recovered from the damp clay where it reposed for more than half a century. The relic, a heavily rusted bayonet, was found three feet under ground by Charles L. Fielding while Mr. Fielding was excavating a spot in his back yard at 215 South McDonough, Decatur, to install a pool.

Howard P. Wright, deputy prohibition administrator, secured the bayonet from Mr. Fielding, and had it on exhibition at his office Tuesday. Several bones, believed to be of a human being, were found buried a few feet away from the bayonet, but the bones were so far gone that they crumbled on touch. It was thought that the bayonet may have belonged to a soldier who lay unnoticed where he fell, and, together with the mortal remains, was covered up during the advance of time. A search of war between the states record revealed to Mr. Wright that troops were encamped near the spot where the bayonet was found.

Some person in Chattanooga with a taste for champagne is probably watering his mouth at this moment in anticipation of a package he expects to arrive by express, but he is out of luck—there won't be any party.

Six bottles of "Piper Heidsieck," famous brand of champagne, fell into the hands of hard-hearted federal prohibition agents Tuesday morning when one of the bottles entered into a conspiracy with fate and broke, revealing its precious contents to express employees.

The express employees, being law-abiding citizens, called in the federal agents, and the package was duly confiscated. The package bore a tag from the Roosevelt hotel in New York city, and was consigned to a party in Chattanooga, the agents said. The value of the shipment, listed on express waybills, was given as $30, just about the price of one bottle of the genuine stuff in New York.

Hodgson Heads New Music Department at University

Athens, Ga., September 11.—(Special.)—An important addition to the cultural facilities of the University of Georgia has been added to that institution and will be a feature of the new term which opens next week.

A department of music, with Hugh Hodgson, most famous teacher in the south, at its head, will be launched this year. Mr. Hodgson will be assisted by Miss Lucy McDermid. The new department, according to Mr. Hodgson, will give theoretical and cultural courses, with full credits as elective studies for the regular degrees. Later it is planned to give degrees in music after various practical courses are offered.

It is the aim of Mr. Hodgson and the university to give special attention to the mass of students, rather than to a few talented performers. Private instructions will be available for unusually promising students, but it is the primary object of the music course to raise the level of general musical knowledge and culture among all students rather than to concentrate upon production of a few star performers.

A large three-manual Burke organ has been installed in the historic old university chapel. This instrument is one of the finest organs yet installed in the south with many of the latest improvements in organ construction. There are about twenty-five hundred pipes, as well as Deagan chimes and harp. It will be used for the regular daily services in the chapel as well as for special recital and radio work.

Headquarters of the new department of music will be temporarily on the lower floor of Demosthenian hall. Evening classes in "appreciation of music" will be given each week, to which citizens of Athens will be admitted. This course will be in the nature of a laboratory class on music history.

Mr. Hodgson, head of the new department, will continue his teaching duties in Athens as well as directing the new course at the university. Mr. Hodgson, in addition to being undoubtedly the greatest concert pianist of the south—and one of the greatest in the nation—has won international fame as a teacher since establishing his studio in Atlanta. He will continue his studio activities in his magnificent quarters in the new Erlanger Theater building in the capital city.

Mrs. Harriet Hirsch will teach with Mr. Hodgson in his Atlanta studio, with Miss Irene Lettwith and Miss Novelle Horton also assisting.

With the consensus of musical opinion conceding that there is more native musical talent in the south than any other section of the country, it is believed that the music course to be offered at the university, combining the practical as well as theoretical side of music, will result in one of the leading music schools of the south, with the probability of an ultimate national fame which will make its founding this fall a matter of important historic import in the musical history of the nation.

BOY STEALS RIDE TO GET TO WORK; LANDS IN PRISON

A boy's ambition to go to Chicago and land a good job with a packing house in that city took a nose dive into the sea of hard luck Tuesday, when Isiah Carter, 18, son of Manie Carter, prohibition agent at Jacksonville, was held by United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith under $2,000 bond on charges of larceny of government transportation requests. Young Carter was picked up Tuesday night at the Union passenger station by Prohibition Agent F. B. Clarke when he asked a ticket agent to show him how to make out the government request for transportation, according to Howard P. Wright, deputy information for North Georgia.

Mr. Wright said that he received information that Isiah Carter was coming from Savannah to Atlanta on government transportation requests to which he was not entitled. The ticket office here were covered by government men, and the arrest followed. The boy said that he received the requests from his father, that he was on his way to Chicago to accept an offer of a packing house job. Mr. Wright said that young Carter made a complete confession, and that he was turned over to George Brodnax of the secret service. In a preliminary hearing Tuesday

SAM SMALL LAUDS RECORD OF STILL

The current issue of the Journal of Labor carries an article by Dr. Sam W. Small on Luther Still, candidate for the legislature from Fulton county in the primary today. The article follows:

BY SAM W. SMALL.
I was a daily and close observer of the proceedings of the Georgia general assembly in the session of 1927.

While much legislation of general application is presented in the general assembly, it is a well-known fact that it is in the principal cities of the state that important legislative needs arise and where the people take more concern to select representatives of trustworthy intelligence and influence.

Atlanta usually has some important issue to be worked out by state legislation and has called into service in the general assemblies many good citizens who figured in those bodies with skill and impressive power.

Centered on Still.
In the campaign of 1926 the industrialists of the city put forward for one of the representative places a gentleman in every way fitted to champion their interests. They centered upon Luther H. Still, who has long been a leader and often an official in the labor organizations of this great industrial center. The choice was so sensible and appropriate that the citizenship heartily indorsed it at the polls.

The speaker of the house carefully assigned Representative Still to appropriate and important committees, and in them he was found to be a specially informed and authoritative counselor.

The floor in debate he developed the power to arrest and hold the attention of the whole body. They soon sensed that he did not speak "to hear himself talk," but to drive into their understanding facts and arguments too important to be ignored.

Champion of Labor.
Very naturally he was the premier champion of organized labor interests, defending its rights and repelling any suspicion or slur directed against it. And just as naturally he stood for the interests of "the man with the hoe," equally with those of the man with the machine and the tool. Labor, in fact, has never had a wiser and better representative in the Georgia general assembly.

One of the most eloquent and effective speeches made during the session was that by Mr. Still in favor of equal and broader education for the children of the state.

He led and fought a winning battle against the mossbacks, who made a dangerous drive to abolish the state department of welfare; and the Atlanta chapter of the national Anti-Tuberculosis association recorded resolutions of gratitude to him for his powerful support of their cause.

As an observer of Georgia legislatures for 40 years past, the writer unhesitatingly pronounces Representative Still one of the safest and most useful legislators who has ever served the state.

Great business interests, laborers, churches, humanitarian institutions, schools, in fact every citizen being in all walks of life will make no mistake in returning Luther Still to the Georgia legislature for a second term, which is fair to him for his honest work.

MANAGER FOR FLYNT REPLIES TO CHARGES

John I. Kelley, manager of the campaign of Judge J. J. Flynt, candidate for secretary of state, issued a statement Tuesday replying to charges made by T. S. Mason, manager of the Carswell campaign, concerning the reasons why Mr. Kelley left the service of United States Senator Thomas E. Watson, whom he served as secretary during a part of the term of the Georgia senator.

In the Mason statement it was the purpose of the Carswell campaign to show up the reasons why Kelley left Washington, according to Mr. Kelley.

Mr. Kelley's statement, which he said was prepared several days ago in anticipation of this "last minute attack," quotes an editorial written by Senator Watson in his newspaper, the Columbia Sentinel, referring to Mr. Kelley's resignation as secretary.

In this editorial Mr. Watson states that Mr. Kelley retired from his service so that he could devote his entire time to his law business at Lawrenceville. He expressed regret over losing the services of Mr. Kelley and stated that "Mr. Kelley carries back with him the sincere good wishes of myself and of those he leaves behind." This editorial was written just 15 days before his death, according to Mr. Kelley.

Will you pay 10¢ a month for shaving comfort?

There are certain little luxuries which every man deserves. One of them is the finest cream he can get to ease the daily irritation of shaving.

So Listerine chemists, after 26 months of research, achieved this concentrated blend of costly ingredients. They studied long, not to produce a cream to sell at a price, but to perfect a velvety lather-maker of supreme and unrivalled quality.

Then, Listerine facilities for tremendous production made possible large economies. The result is a big white tube crammed with 118 inches of luxury cream, more than enough for 157 shaves, easily a five-months' supply. At 50¢ its economy is obvious. Ask for Listerine Shaving Cream at any good drug or department store.

If you and your face are

IRRITATED by SHAVING

Friction is the reason

THERE is more to shaving than merely softening the beard. Men have learned that by painful experience.

For there still remains the harsh scrape and pull as the razor's edge is forced across the tiny peaks which hold the hairs. This friction scours the skin, producing heat and painful smarting.

To take the torture out of shaving in a scientific way, Listerine chemists have perfected an amazing shaving cream which lubricates the skin!

A velvety film of soothing glycerine smooths the path of the razor. The effect is instantaneous. The same old blade which used to hop-skip-and jump, slides along so gently that it almost seems to wipe the whiskers off.

The toughest beards, the tenderest skins, yield to this new-type cream which includes not only cosmetic lubricant but the antiseptic essential oils of Listerine.

No need to rub the lather in. No need to rub the lotions on. Your face will feel glad, and you will grin and bless the day on which you first tried Listerine Shaving Cream. Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, St. Louis, Mo.

A FRIEND of one of our officers dropped in a few days ago and remarked:

"I've invested some money in —. What do you think about it?"

"Why didn't you ask me before you invested?" returned the banker.

"Because I felt certain you'd advise me against it!"

Quite a number of persons seek expert advice too late for it to be of use. They might profit by asking before investment—not afterward.

G. O. P. MAJORITY IN MAINE 84,000

Portland, Maine, September 11.—(AP)—Scattered returns from small upstate communities, received late today, increased the lead of William Tudor Gardner, republican gubernatorial candidate, to 84,891 over C. Moran, Jr., his democratic opponent in the Maine state election held yesterday. The majority is the largest ever given a gubernatorial candidate in this state.

Only 17 precincts out of the 635 in the state remained to be recorded. Mr. Gardner carried every city in the state with the exception of Biddeford and Lewiston, both of which are normally democratic by wide margins.

The senatorial contest between Frederick Hale, republican, and Herbert E. Holmes, democrat, resulted in a margin of 80,004 for the republican candidate.

Congressman Carroll L. Beedy in the first district, Wallace H. White, Jr., in the second and John E. Nelson in the third, all republicans, were re-elected by substantial margins and Donald F. Snow, republican, won an easy victory in the fourth district. The closest contest was in the second district where the democrats had campaigned the hardest and where their nominees for governor and for senator reside.

The republican victory of yesterday swept the last remaining democrats from the Maine state senate, according to figures compiled thus far, making that body unanimously republican in the next legislature. The democratic membership in the house was reduced from 22 to 16 or 17, depending upon missing returns from two Knox county towns.

There will be three women senators, Mrs. Dora B. Pinkham and Mrs. Katherine O. Allen being re-elected and Mrs. Claire C. Carter, of Auburn, chosen for the first time. Mrs. Folsom, Mrs. Maude Clark Gay and Mrs. Lauchlin were re-elected and Mrs. Leonard M. Day was elected from Gorham, Cumberland county.

Contrary to predictions of a heavy vote made freely during the campaign, the total vote was about 35,000 less than that cast for governor the last presidential year.

COLLEGE IS OPENED TO TRAIN OFFICERS OF SALVATION ARMY

Candidates for Salvation Army officership from 12 southern states will be enrolled in the officers' training college here today to begin an intensive 10-months course to prepare them for evangelistic and relief work in the south.

The session opening today will be the second "all-southern" course conducted since the 15 southern states, from Texas to Maryland, were organized into the southern territory under command of Commissioner William A. McIntyre in January of last year. It will be known as the "centenary session" in recognition of the 100th year since the birth of General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army.

Brigadier Harry Bayes is principal of the training college with a staff of 10 assistants to instruct the cadets in the different branches of Bible history, homiletics and other subjects necessary to Salvation Army evangelism.

Cadets who will come to Atlanta from towns and cities throughout the territory already have passed a long series of tests as to character and intelligence in order to win acceptance for training. The course of training is made so strenuous and difficult that it provides a further test of sincerity of purpose as well as of ability. The cadets who pass it will receive promotional commissions and will enter upon a third test period of actual service in the field, to continue for an additional year before they can be accepted as full-fledged Salvation Army officership.

International Life Assets Are Given To Missouri Life

H. W. Campbell, receiver of the International Life Insurance company, was directed Tuesday in a decree signed by Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibbey to turn over all money, property, or effects of that company to the Missouri State Life Insurance company under a plan to have the International policyholders reinsured by the Missouri State Life. Judge Sibbey's decree approved the petition recently filed by James R. Beckman, which sought to have all policies of the International Life reinsured by the Missouri State Life.

VOTING QUALIFICATIONS IN NOVEMBER SET OUT

Following a number of inquiries as to qualifications necessary for voters in the November election, The Constitution has prepared a statement of the Georgia law bearing on this subject.

The effect of the law is that in order to cast a ballot in the national election, the would-be voter must have legally registered at least six months before the date of the election.

The constitution of the United States, article 2, section 2, provides that the legislature of each state shall provide for the manner of electing the presidential electors.

Section 94 of the Georgia code provides that the election of presidential electors shall be governed by the same rules as are applicable to the election for members of the general assembly.

Section 34 of the Georgia code prescribes the qualification of voters and provides that:

"To entitle a person to register and vote at any election by the people, he shall have resided in the state one year next preceding the election, and in the county in which he offers to vote six months next preceding the election, and shall have paid all taxes which may have been required of him since the adoption of the constitution of Georgia of 1877 that he may have had an opportunity of paying agreeably to law. Such payment must have been made at least six months prior to the election at which he offers to vote, except when such elections are held within six months from the expiration of the term fixed by law for the payment of such taxes."

Section 38 of the Georgia code provides:

"The tax collector shall, in each year in which there is a general election to be held for governor and members of the general assembly, close the voters' books for said election six months before the date of election."

Section 39 provides:

"No one shall be allowed to register for said election unless he shall have paid all taxes due by him at least six months before the date of the election."

By the act of 1913 it was provided that there shall be a permanent registration list and that persons who are once registered shall continue to be registered and entitled to vote if they pay their taxes when due and do not otherwise become disqualified.

Sister-In-Law Wins Freedom For Bigamist

Tallahassee, Fla., September 11.—(AP)—A red-haired girl with blue eyes moved members of the state board of pardons to tears today with pleas for clemency for her sister's husband.

The case was that of Mrs. Roy Singleton, of Lawton, who sought and succeeded, through the efforts of her sister, to obtain a conditional pardon for Guy L. Singleton, alias Roy, who was sentenced to two years in Saragosa county for bigamy.

The girl, identified only as Mrs. Singleton's sister, stood firmly before the five state dignitaries who compose the board, presenting her case as clearly and composedly as a lawyer, bursting into tears herself only when she had spoken the final words of her plea.

Handkerchiefs were pulled from the pockets of the board members, were removed and eyes were dried. When Governor John W. Martin, chairman of the board, announced the conditional pardon, applause burst from all sides of the senate chamber where the open meeting is being held.

The board began its semi-annual session this morning with the longest list of applications for clemency for state and county prisoners in the history of Florida.

During the day, the cases of Fred W. Brownlee, under sentence of death, Roosevelt Bullard, negro, who is scheduled to be electrocuted for an ax murder in Baker county, and J. Mendenhall, serving a life term in the penitentiary, were among those presented. No action was taken on any of them, however, except the conditional pardon of Singleton being granted.

JESSE C. NELLIS, LUMBER DIVISION CHIEF, A VISITOR

Jesse C. Nellis, chief of the lumber division of the United States department of commerce, passed through Atlanta Tuesday en route to Jacksonville, Fla., where he will confer with lumber exporters. Exports of southern pine this year increased 20 per cent over 1927, Mr. Nellis said.

Mr. Nellis spent several hours here in conference with Harry O. Mitchell, branch manager of the department of commerce. Mr. Nellis was secretary-manager of the national emergency bureau of the wooden box industry, which was established in Washington to assist the government during the world war, and has been assistant secretary of the National Association of Box Manufacturers and secretary of the North Carolina Pine Box and Shook Manufacturers association.

GANG WAR NEWS IN CORNER STONE OF CHI. BUILDING

Chicago, September 11.—(AP)—It is interesting to note the headlines on the four newspapers which were sealed today in the cornerstone of the new George Herbert Jones Chemistry laboratory at the University of Chicago.

The headlines are:

"Hunt Uale Aid in Killing."
"Special Crime Jury Impaneled."
"Three Hold-Up Men Raid Hotel."
"Two Caught After Bold Loop Robbery."

As a sop to science, some tracts on chemistry also were included.

RAILROADS APPROVE RATES SET BY I. C. C.

Testimony that maintenance of railroad rates to, from and between points in southern territory as prescribed or approved by the interstate commerce commission in its southern class rate investigation would be "in the public interest" was offered the interstate commerce commission here Tuesday by southern carriers.

Ten F. Morris, assistant to the freight traffic manager of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company, testified before R. V. Pitt, assistant director of traffic of the interstate commerce commission, in behalf of southern roads.

Carriers and their representative organizations from New England to the gulf, east of the Mississippi river, were represented at the hearing on the petition presented by the carriers. The roads seek authority to maintain rates published in adjacent and contiguous territories. It also asks establishment of or maintenance of higher rates constructed on the bases "prescribed or approved" in the investigation, "or on the same principle as the mileage scale of rates prescribed therein in the form of classification exceptions or commodity rates without observing the long and short haul provision of the interstate commerce act."

Mr. Morris, whose testimony included oral statements and a mass of statistical exhibits, said maintenance of the rates would "deprive the shippers of no benefits" prescribed in the southern class rate investigation.

Representatives of traffic and trade organizations in several sections of Virginia and North Carolina, and from Atlanta and Louisville, were here to oppose the petition. While their evidence has not been presented, they said they would oppose continuation of the rates on the ground that they are not in accord with the long and short haul provision of the interstate commerce act. Under the present rates, which were described as temporary, the shippers' representatives said lowest rates were not always made to destinations nearer point of shipment on the long haul route.

The hearing is expected to continue for several days. Much of the testimony is of a technical or statistical nature, representatives at the hearing said.

Director Pitt said hearing on that portion of the application dealing with rates west of the Mississippi river had been continued.

MANY CONTRIBUTIONS AID POLICE BAND FUND

With indorsements in the shape of contributions being received each day, the drive for $5,000 to send the Atlanta police band to Cuba for the Spanish War Veterans' convention there in October grows each day in size and vigor.

The police organization has been invited to the thirty-third annual gathering at Havana, October 7-12, by the Cuban government and due to the lack of provision for such trips through the city exchequer it was found necessary to stage a drive for the raising of the fund.

Several groups and individuals have heartily indorsed the movement. Included in this morning's arrivals were the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor L. N. Bagdikian and Chief of Police James L. Beavers, the latter having been designated as the person to whom checks should be mailed.

Civic bodies have a two-fold interest in sending the police musicians to the gathering. In the first place their presence will be good advertising for the city in general and second, their "pop" and entertainment is expected to aid materially in Atlanta's fight for the proposed $2,000,000 veterans' hospital which is to be located in some southern city.

This proposed plant will be used as a hospital and home for veterans of all wars and is expected to be one of the finest institutions of its kind in the country. Several other cities are bidding for the home.

The State Board of Health is authority for the statement that Governor Hardman was responsible for the facilities that enabled that Department to save 27,000 lives that were in danger by reason of rabies infection, and that the free treatment administered by the State Board of Health in that connection has saved the citizens of the State $2,000,000.00 in the expense of treatment.

Governor Hardman is also responsible for the free treatment for diphtheria that has saved thousands of lives as well as great sums of money for the people of the State.

ANTI-SMITH CARDS BARRED TO MAIL

Baltimore, September 11.—(AP)—Approximately 100 post cards attacking Governor Smith have been seized in the postoffice here under an order of Postmaster Benjamin F. Woelper, Jr., while awaiting orders from postal authorities from Washington.

Some of the cards, Mr. Woelper said, were delivered before they came to the attention of postal clerks, but once their nature was discovered every employee was ordered to be on the alert.

Although it was reported general orders had been issued at Washington, they had not been received here when the seizure was made, but the postmaster acted on a ruling by O. N. Forrest, assistant district attorney, and George E. Brill, chief postal inspector at this office, that the cards violated regulations forbidding the mailing of "scurrilous and libelous matter."

The printed cards attacking Governor Smith and the Catholic church gave no indication as to the sender, but an effort will be made to find him, Mr. Brill said.

Miss Robina Astin Named MISS MILDRED ELLIS ALSO POPULAR Second Winner in Contest

BY ELMO HANBY.

Second night's elimination trials Tuesday night at the Howard theater saw Miss Robina Astin, petite singer and dancer, chosen as the most popular entrant of this set of personality girls in the personality girl contest being conducted by The Constitution and the Howard theater to select Atlanta's "It" girl.

Contested strongly by Miss Mildred Ellis, who, in a clever Apache costume, with a pair of passionately-colored collegiate suspenders thrown in for that cosmopolitan touch, sang "Mon Homme"—like she really meant it, too—Miss Astin was awarded the largest hand for a song and two dances.

As on the opening night, the applause was so heavy that Ray Teal, master of ceremonies, had to call the girls and again before any deciding difference could be obtained. Judging by audience-applause, the city is decidedly interested in naming the "It" girl who is to represent it.

Elimination trials will be held at 9 o'clock at the Howard theater each night this week through Friday. On Saturday night at the same hour, elimination winners of each previous night, five in number, will stage the finale of the contest and the winner will be named on this night.

The first and only prize in the contest—muchly coveted by the entrants—is a four weeks' engagement on the Howard theater stage, appearing with the Publix shows, at $75 per week. Public in this four weeks will attempt to develop the youngster into professional stage talent.

In the event she shows sufficient ability, she will be starred in one of the big Publix shows which play all the principal theaters in the largest cities of the country. Her contract under this engagement will call for a salary of $125 per week.

other acts. Movietone talking news also is seen.

Loew's Grand.

The stupendous $4,000,000 picture, "Ben Hur," is the offering at Loew's Grand theater this week, presented here for the first time at popular prices. This picture is one of the all-time classics of the screen, contains numerous massive scenes with as many as 15,000 people taking part. The stirring chariot race, scene and sea battle are classical. Ramon Novarro, May McAvoy and Francis X. Bushman are the stars.

Cameo.

"Half a Brick" showing at the Cameo today and Thursday is an intriguing study of modern fast living. The story moves from the ballrooms to the underworld dives, to a deck of an ocean-going yacht and to a deserted island. Esther Ralston and Gary Cooper have the leading roles.

Tudor.

In Buzz Barton's new picture, "The Pinto Kid," at the Tudor theater today and Thursday, this versatile 13-year-old western star has a story which concerns a feud in a cattle country. Two ranchers are bitter enemies as the result of a dispute over water rights, and their quarrel finally grows into open warfare.

Alamo No. 2.

With a plot exceptionally strong in originality, "The Chinese Parrot," which comes to the Alamo Theater No. 2 today has everything that holds a movie audience in an unshakable grip. This Universal-Jewel production is an unusually absorbing drama written around the red, raw elements of life and love and the lure of gold.

Empire.

Belle Bennett in "The Sporting Age" is today's screen feature at the new Empire theater, corner of Georgia avenue and Creek street. There is a generous helping of thrills in this drama of modern sports and strange fascinations—airplanes, speed-boats, race horses and express trains rushing head-on to destruction will hold one and all spellbound as this picture unfolds before the eye.

Howard.

"Lilac Time," First National's big air special is the unusually fine screen attraction at the Howard theater this week. Starring in this thrilling and romantic spectacle of the air are Gary Cooper and Colleen Moore. Ray Teal, stepping into another week of greater popularity, introduces several entertaining performers and a novelty number in the Publix stage show, "Gems."

Rialto.

RADIOING THE AIR WAVES

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.

Recently returned from their triumphant tour of European capitals, the Palmolive Revellers will again be featured in the Palmolive hour to be broadcast over WSB and the NBC system at 7 o'clock tonight.

They have selected two numbers which were the hits of their six weeks' appearance at the Folies Bergeres in Paris. These are the popular song hits, "Blue Shadows" and "Way It Is a Dream".

For this evening Director Gustave Haenschen has arranged a gala program and the symphonic orchestral features will be Chabrier's "Rhapsodie Espagnole" and "The Flight of the Bumble Bee," by Rimsky-Korsakoff.

Olive Palmer's solos, "L'Ete de Charmante," and "Clavilites," offer special opportunity to display her coloratura powers. With Paul Oliver she will sing "Anything You Say," Paul Oliver's own solo will be "May's" and he will also sing with the Palmolive Ensemble in "I'm Flyin' High," and bits from "Present Arms."

In addition there will be the customary guitar and saxophone novelties, and the ensemble singing of Irving Berlin's "Roses of Yesterday."

"The Quaker Girl," with Jessica Dragonette and Colin O'More in the leads, will be presented as the Philco Feature through WSB and the NBC System tonight at 7 o'clock.

The latter half of the Philco hour will be devoted to excerpts from musical shows, and a medley of George M. Cohan's songs, "Racketty Coon," "I Want to Marry a Male Quartet," from "Katinka," two songs from "Tip Top," and several excerpts from "The Count of Luxembourg" will be heard. The part of Philco Second Tenor, will not be broadcast, by WSB.

Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial by Jury," a dramatic cantata in one act, will be broadcast by the National Light Opera company through WSB and the NBC System at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Since "Trial by Jury" requires approximately 30 minutes for a complete performance, the balance of the weekly light opera hour will be devoted to outstanding numbers from other Gilbert and Sullivan operas heard during the summer months. This will conclude the Gilbert and Sullivan series which has been broadcast by the National Light Opera company for the past three months.

The radio production of "Trial by Jury" will be under the direction of Graham Harris and will present the following soloists: Theodore Webb, Plaintiff; Rosalie Wolfe, Counsel for Plaintiff; Steele Jamison, Defendant; George O'Brien, Foreman of Jury; John Oakley, Lawyer; and John Blomberg, Judge.

A program of sentimental songs will be sung by the Sylvia Rose quartet, during the program to be broadcast through KDKA and the NBC System at 6:30 o'clock tonight.

After the customary opening, "In the Gloaming" and "Sylvia Rose," the singers will proceed to "Violets," by Wright, "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," by Evans, and "Hobnobbing." In the Good Old Summer time, "Girl of My Dreams, I Love You" sustains the sentimental vein, the program concluding with Carrie Jacobs-Bond's "End of a Perfect Day."

Stefano di Stefano, noted harpist, will be the guest of the Evening Post this evening, and will present as solo "Au Printemps," by Gounod, and "Friend of My Soul," by May.

Another feature of the program will be an old southern melody, "What Kind of Shoes You Gonna Wear," sung by the quartet.

Raymond Hitchcock, Leon Errol, Walter Winchell, and Gene Buck, all prominent in the theatrical field, have signed their intention of being present at the first of a series of "Will Rogers for President" rallies, sponsored by Life magazine, and broadcast through the courtesy of the Kolster Radio corporation. The first rally will be broadcast by the Columbia system at 8 o'clock tonight. Subsequent rallies have been planned for broadcasting on alternate Wednesdays thereafter until election day.

As the "white-light" district of New York is 100 per cent for Will Rogers for president, it is indeed fitting that the first rally should be staged in a night club which the United States government has persuaded the owners to abandon because of "lock trouble." Raymond Hitchcock will officiate as sergeant-at-arms for the bachelors, and act as master of the "males" during the rally.

As Will Rogers has not as yet been notified officially of his nomination, owing to the fact that the bunkles convention does not convene until after election day, he has already won the support of such distinguished citizens as Henry Ford, Tex Rickard, Nicholas Murray Butler, William Allen White, Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey, and others too numerous to mention.

Radio Exposition Heaven for Fans Of Ether Waves

BY LOYD A. WILHOIT.

Atlanta's municipal auditorium this week is heaven for the radio nut. The annual radio exposition is on in full swing, and that dreamy-eyed individual who talks in terms of "super-heterodyne," "interference," "stators," and the other shibboleths of the brotherhood of the ether can roam entranced through a veritable maze of cabinets and tubes, loud speakers and inbuilt aerials.

Tuesday the radio show swung into its second day with attendance at a mark to gratify those who are exhibiting and with interest keen on the part of the public. Booths literally glisten with the new and sleek beauties from the radio factories. Big sets and little sets, enameled and finished in rare woods, mounted in cabinets and sitting on tables—they're all there on public display with elegant salesmen ready to extol their virtues and exclusive features.

In addition there are other features that draw attention of the mere layman who knows little of the technical side of radio and who is content with listening to a modest aerial and tuning in to enjoy the music quietly without striving to break distance records. There's a queer mass of mechanics called a television machine with a crowd gazing constantly about it and speaking in awed whispers of this daily of the future invisible eye that will pierce walls and defy space to bring spectacles to your parlor and fireside.

Then there's the stage attractively draped in blue hangings with a big piano and a little microphone. Here the show's musicians exhibit their entertainment wares for the benefit of the radio throngs, with the radio constantly spreading the music to unseen listeners everywhere.

In many ways the radio exposition is attractive. It represents the mass gesture of friendly mechanics of the radio manufacturing world to the public that patronizes it. That public evidently is appreciating the show.

WOMAN WINS SOUTH CAROLINA ASSEMBLY SEAT

Columbia, S. C., September 11.—(AP)—Mary Ellis, of Jasper county, tonight apparently had won the distinction of being the first woman ever elected to the South Carolina general assembly. Complete official returns from the second 1928 democratic primary in Jasper county where Mrs. Ellis and H. Klugh Purdy were in a second race for the state senate gave Mrs. Ellis 620 votes and Mr. Purdy 439. Returns from other races throughout the state showed a light vote. Six seats in the state senate and 14 in the house were the only state offices at stake in the primary although there were run-offs in a number of county races. The democratic nomination in South Carolina is equivalent to election, and Mrs. Ellis with her unofficial lead of 181 votes over her opponent was regarded elected.

GEORGIA STATIONS SHIFT FREQUENCIES

BY MARTIN CODEL.

(North American Newspaper Alliance.) Washington, September 11.—Each of Georgia's six broadcasting stations must shift frequencies under the plan of reallocation ordered effective November 11 by the federal radio commission. Stations in nearby states which are regularly heard by Georgia listeners and the high powered stations at distance which can be dialed consistently or sporadically must, as a general rule, also make shifts.

All this makes certain that Georgia radio fans will have to learn new dialing habits when seated before their radio sets this winter. The changes are radical in some cases and slight in others. Station WSB, Atlanta, obtained the state's quota of one cleared channel under the zone and state equalization required by the Davis amendment to the radio law. It will shift from its present frequency of 630 kilocycles (475.5 meters) to the cleared high-power channel of 740 kilocycles (405.2 meters), a wave that should be as easy to tune in, if not easier.

Moreover, the Atlanta station has been granted construction permit enabling it to step up its power to 5,000 watts and insuring it a wider listening range. Station WGST, the Georgia Tech station, must shift from 1110 kilocycles (270.1 meters) to 890 kilocycles (335.9 meters), sharing with Mercer university's station at Macon. This is one of the regional channels shared with Canadian stations, but inasmuch as the stations will use only 500 watts power and are so far south little or no interference should result.

Station WTHS is reduced in power from 200 to 20 watts, but shifts only 10 kilocycles away to 1310 kilocycles (228.9 meters), one of the crowded local low-power channels. It must share broadcast hours with WRHJ, another 20 watt station, at Tifton. Another local channel assigned goes to WRHJ, Columbus, which must shift to 1200 kilocycles (249.9 meters), continuing to use only 50 watts power.

LEVINE TANGLES AFFAIRS AGAIN; MAY QUIT RACE

Roosevelt Field, New York, September 11.—(AP)—The confusion and turmoil that has featured every long flight with which Charles A. Levine has been associated was injected into the final arrangements for the non-stop transatlantic air derby to Rome when Levine's new crew withdrew to make a trans-Atlantic flight.

Levine's trans-Atlantic monoplane Columbia was in the final stages of preparation for the race, Levine arranging from abroad to have the ship flown by Lieutenant Jack Iseman, commandant of the Rockaway naval air station. But when Levine arrived back in America yesterday he began to rearrange his flight personnel. He announced that Roger Q. Williams would be chief pilot instead of Iseman. Williams having decided not to accompany Levine on the flight to Rome with Cesare Sabelli, Peter Bonelli, another of Sabelli's crew, also cut loose from that venture and it was announced that he, too, might fly in the Columbia.

Late today, however, Williams and Bonelli suddenly announced that they had decided to go with Sabelli after all and would leave at once for Hartford, Conn. This left Levine with only Lieutenant Iseman and there was a general belief that the Columbia would be scratched.

RADIO TUBE MONOPOLY HELD ILLEGAL BY U. S.

Philadelphia, September 11.—(AP)—The close of the agreements entered into between the Radio Corporation of America and its licensee manufacturers of radio receiving sets restricting the manufacturers to the use of Radio corporation's tubes in the construction of such sets, is void and in violation of the Clayton anti-trust law, the United States circuit court of appeals decided today.

Miss Emily Jane Randall, another sister of the bride, wore a similar model in orchid georgette with hat trimmed in orchid velvet. The attendants carried peridot rosesbuds tied with yellow tulle. A bow of the same material as used in the gown was pinned to the left shoulder with a pearl ornament. The streamers fell gracefully behind her shoulder to the hem of the skirt. Blue satin slippers and a Neapolitan chapeau with blue velvet bow encircled by blue and pink garden flowers completed the costume. The bride carried two handkerchiefs with unusual sentiment attached. One was formerly worn by her matron of honor in her own wedding and the second was a present from Mrs. Raymond Grant, mother of the groom, who had worn it in her own wedding years ago in New York as a present from her mother's trousseau. The sheath of bride's roses and valley lilies was a beautiful finishing note to the bridal costume.

The mother of the bride, Mrs. O. R. Randall, was effectively gowned in tan georgette and lace with corresponding hat and shoes. Her shoulder corsage was of sweetheart roses. Mrs. Raymond Grant, of Rochester, N. Y., mother of the groom, wore navy blue Canton crepe with a blue picture hat

Twenty-Second Infantry Plans Sixty-Second Birthday Party

Fort McPherson, Ga., September 11.—The Twenty-second infantry will celebrate its sixty-second birthday on September 21 at Fort McPherson. The Twenty-second is arranging plans to include each member of the regiment in duty at the garrison in the celebration. The regiment has had a long and colorful career and its first colonel, David S. Stanley, was its commanding officer for 18 years, until he was appointed a brigadier general in 1884. The Twenty-second having been formed after the close of the civil war, took part in the frontier duty which at that time offered plenty of dangers for the plucky Twenty-second. When the surveying party of the Northern Pacific railway were sent west the troops of the Twenty-second went along as escort. In a world where the regiment was represented by 400 men and four officers, who distinguished themselves in a manner of which their old regiment might well be proud. The colors of the regiment to which the numerous battle streamers are affixed give evidence of the long and memorable career of the Twenty-second.

Colonel and Mrs. Locklin W. Caffrey and their charming daughter, Miss Helen Caffrey, have arrived at the Biltmore hotel and are occupying quarters No. 20 on the officers' line. Colonel Caffrey is commanding officer of the Twenty-second infantry and both he and Mrs. Caffrey will prove delightful

Two of Escaped Convicts Seized; Body Discovered

Baton Rouge, La., September 11.—(AP)—In kaleidoscopic fashion the mystery surrounding the shooting during Sunday night's break for liberty by a dozen convicts at the state prison farm tonight began to clear up.

First Stephen J. Beck, for whom a grave had been dug by prison officials, was picked up by police as he strolled casually along an Alexandria, La., street. Later the body of Charles Owen, leader of the breakers, was found floating in the middle of the Mississippi river by a fisherman named Patterson.

Collier, one of the two convicts that escaped through the woods, was arrested by prison guards while he was eating in a store at Addis.

A separate building has been built to accommodate the first, second and third grades of the primary department, and additions have been made enlarging the domestic science and domestic arts departments and the chemistry laboratory, and new equipment has been installed throughout.

SMITH NOT WORRIED BY VOTE IN MAINE

Albany, N. Y., September 11.—(AP) Governor Smith indicated today that he was not worrying about political trends in states which he is convinced the democrats have little or no chance of carrying in November. And he puts Maine in that class.

The only comment for publication of the democratic presidential nominee on yesterday's election result in the Pine Tree state was this:

"I never was optimistic enough to think Maine would be anything but republican."

He made this observation to newspapermen after he had inquired, rather casually, what the Maine result had been, and had been informed that the republicans had carried the state by more than 70,000. Morning papers which were available to the governor had carried only incomplete returns.

Confers on New York.

Although he evinced little interest in the Maine voting, the democratic standard bearer showed plainly that he was conversant over the political situation in New York state, which his advisers hold he must carry to win over Herbert Hoover. He announced that before his departure for the west Sunday night on his first stumping tour he had one conference on his schedule, and that with democratic leaders in the state.

The governor, who is anxious not only to map out a campaign that will bring success for the national ticket but will keep the executive branch of the state government in the hands of the democrats, has invited M. William Bray, of Utica, new chairman of the party's state committee; Mrs. Caroline O'Day, vice chairman, who will accompany the nominee on his initial campaign trip, and others who will have a hand in state campaign to meet with him here. The exact time of the conference has not been determined.

Pleased to See Stratton.

During today's press conference some one called attention to the announcement of Rev. John Roach Stratton, who has been assailing the governor, that the New York Baptist clergyman intended to be present when he delivers his Oklahoma City address September 2 and might challenge him from the floor.

"I'll be pleased to see him," said Governor Smith grimly, dismissing the subject.

He declined to be drawn out on press accounts of optimistic observations by Chairman Raskob, of the democratic national committee, as to conditions in various states, including Pennsylvania, and reiterated that he intended to adhere to a policy of making comment on the statements of any of his managers.

All along Governor Smith has refrained from making predictions as to the strength of his and his running mate, Senator Robinson, will show in any state.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

THE VISITOR BECOMES A NEIGHBOR.

By Thornton W. Burgess. To the truth of this attend: That neighbor's best who is your friend.

—Old Mother Nature. "Did you live here long?" inquired Whitefoot the Wood Mouse of Trader the Wood Rat, over in Farmer Brown's sugar-house.

"Yes," replied Trader. "Yes, I lived here quite some time."

"What did you move for?" inquired Whitefoot. "Trader scratched his rather long nose thoughtfully. Then he asked a question. 'What did you move from your last home for?'"

"Because we were afraid to stay there," declared Whitefoot honestly. "Well, that's what I moved away from here for," said Trader.

Whitefoot's eyes opened very wide. "Afraid!" he exclaimed. "Afraid! What were you afraid of? Yowler the Bobcat didn't get in here, did he?"

"Well," replied Trader, "perhaps I shouldn't say that I was exactly afraid. And it certainly wasn't Yowler the Bobcat that caused me to move. You know there are some secrets we like to keep secret. Farmer Brown's Boy discovered my nest and opened it up. After that I thought I'd better leave. So I took all my belongings and moved out."

"And did Farmer Brown's Boy bother you any more?" inquired Whitefoot. "No," replied Trader. "No, I can't say he did. In fact, I haven't seen him since. I don't think he's been around this place for a long, long time. That's why I'm thinking of moving back. As for Yowler the Bobcat, he can't get inside here unless someone leaves the door open and there isn't anyone to do that."

"Do you think you'll move in right away?" inquired Whitefoot. "Yes," replied Trader. "I think I will. I never could see any use in putting things off. No, sir, I never could. I don't suppose you'd object to having a neighbor."

Whitefoot looked at Mrs. Whitefoot and both declared together, "We shall be very happy to have you for a neighbor, Cousin Trader."

Trader grinned. Then he disappeared. You see, he had a hole under the wood pile that corner where his Treasures.

ROMANCE BARED BY 'BUTCHER BOY'

Los Angeles, September 11.—(AP)—Details of Leo P. Kelley's five-year illicit love affair with Mrs. Myrtle Mellus, society matron, for whose murder he is on trial, were related by the defendant from the witness stand today as his chief argument to save himself from conviction. Declaring himself to have been a "man pursued," Kelley, a 29-year-old meat cutter, told of the clandestine meetings which had occurred "every Sunday but six in the five years" and at least "two nights a week."

From the day he was introduced to Mrs. Mellus in January, 1923, in the meat market where he worked, Kelley testified he was "chased." He declared Mrs. Mellus on one occasion told him she was "mad at F. H." (her husband—Frank Mellus) because he ran around with a blond.

On Sunday, August 5, when the nude and mutilated body of Mrs. Mellus was found in her home, Kelley was captured in a clothes closet. On the stand today he said he hid there because Mellus came home unexpectedly and he "thought if I hid there she could let me out of the house later when things quieted down." He said he had hidden in the closet on previous occasions when the husband surprised them together.

Kelley said that when Mrs. Mellus went up to her bedroom the afternoon of the fatal last Sunday he spent with her, he heard her fall on the stairway and that he rushed to her, carried her to her bedroom and that he then fell asleep. Later Mrs. Mellus walked to the stairway to bid him goodbye, he said, when the door bell rang and he hid in the closet.

Then, he testified he heard Mrs. Mellus scream "Frank" after the husband had entered the house and gone up stairs and that he heard no more until the police awakened him in the closet.

When Kelley was arrested in the Mellus home the day of the woman's death, he admitted to the police he "gave her a terrible beating," which the state contends proved fatal.

SUBMARINE SAFETY DEVICE IS SUCCESSFUL

On Board the Submarine Salvage Vessel Falcon, Solomon's Island, Md., September 11.—(AP)—Going down into the deepest hole in the choppy waters of the Chesapeake bay, three navy divers today successfully accomplished a test to show that men entrapped in a sunken submarine can escape by means of a new submarine safety device, called "the lung," from a depth of 155 feet.

The divers came from the bottom of the bay using the simple apparatus, which consists of an oxygen bag and a mouthpiece attachment. At the bottom of the bay they encountered a pressure of 68 pounds to the square inch, but they reached the surface without the slightest discomfort and this dispelled all fears and dangers of diver's bends from the use of the apparatus.

The test was successful despite the fact that most unfavorable conditions for the purpose of the experiments were especially picked in order that the reliability of "the lung" could be established. The divers went down in a 5,000-pound diving bell, which simulated a flooded compartment of a sunken or wrecked submarine. The divers were said by naval officers aboard the Falcon to have proved with their tests that the apparatus was the most successful ever devised. It was made known that several scores of these devices are being constructed and their final test, that of being used for actual escape from a flooded submarine and 225 feet of water, will be made next month by the same divers.

COOLIDGE RETURNS TO SICK TREASURY

By ROBERT MOOREFIELD.

Aboard Presidential Special Train En Route to Washington, September 11.—(United News.)—Refreshed from three months' life in the open along the Brule river in northwest Wisconsin, President Coolidge was returning to Washington tonight. Problems awaiting him include paring of the budget for the remaining part of his administration and directing action in congress ratifying the Briand-Kellogg anti-war treaty, already tentatively agreed to by the United States.

Alarmed at Deficit.
Before leaving Wisconsin the president expressed alarm over the deficit of the present budget, following a conference at the summer white house with Herbert Lord, director of the budget. He made it known then he would assemble departmental heads to introduce stringent regularizing measures in order to keep the government's finances in a satisfactory condition.

Ready to Assist.
Mr. Coolidge also is ready to assist in the ratification of the anti-war pact. He looks upon the treaty as an outstanding move for world pacification and is desirous of affixing American signature to the pact immediately after congress convenes in December. While the president does not expect concerted opposition to the pact's ratification, he is said to be anxious to insure the senate's approval.

On his return to Washington, the president must decide what part he will take in the campaign for Herbert Hoover. He has told friends he will do "what is best" to aid Hoover, but so far has not been specific as to the methods he will employ.

HEFLIN CHALLENGES FULLER TO DEBATE

Washington, September 11.—(AP)—Senator Hefflin, of Alabama, today challenged Governor Fuller, of Massachusetts, to a joint debate. The Alabama took exception to a recent statement by the governor that American soldiers faced no worse enemies on the fields of France than "Senator Hefflin and Dr. Roach Straton have been fighting Governor Smith, of New York."

"This is the second time this year that you have been guilty of falsely and maliciously attacking and misrepresenting me," Senator Hefflin said in a letter addressed to Governor Fuller. ## JOHN COOLIDGE STARTS TO WORK AS RAILWAY CLERK

New Haven, Conn., September 11.—(AP)—John Coolidge, son of President Calvin Coolidge, today entered upon his career as a railroad man by reporting for duty head of schedule. It was 10 o'clock, 30 minutes ahead of reporting time, when he came to the "yellow building," the roomy structure which houses the hands of departing New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad system.

To the hundreds of clerks was added John Coolidge, and his identity for a time will be submerged, from the viewpoint of the railroad, into the clerical force. He will be one of the clerks in the office of J. A. Dregge, general manager of the New Haven system, whose office is the heart of train operations in all southern New England.

Young Coolidge came to work in a blue suit, blue shirt and tie, and gray hat. He reported at once to the chief clerk in Mr. Dregge's office. His first duties will be of a routine nature.

COAL MINER SOON REGAINS 'LOST PEP'

Tells How He Has Taken Theford's Black-Draught for Relief of Constipation During Last 40 Years.

Tracy City, Tenn.—"My work makes it necessary for me to use a medicine which will give quick relief from constipation and indigestion," says Mr. Lee Nunley, a well-known coal miner of this place.

"For forty years or more," he says, "I have taken Black-Draught for these troubles, and have always found it reliable. At times, I suffer from bad spells of indigestion, following constipation."

"Many years ago, a friend told me to try Black-Draught, as it was a vegetable remedy and would not harm my 'pep,' so that is how I came to use it. I make a tea of it, and take a sip of it after meals. I soon begin to feel better when I start this treatment."

"My work is very confining, and my color gets bad and I get sluggish. I lose my 'pep' and don't feel like going. After I take a course of Black-Draught, I feel fine again."

Manufacture of Theford's Black-Draught began in 1840, and many people tell of having taken it all their lives when in need of a laxative or cathartic. Made of medicinal herbs and roots, it has been carefully selected, and then scientifically combined in convenient, powdered form. Sold everywhere; 25 doses, 25¢.

ATLANTA ITALIANS GREET NEW CONSUL

Dr. Attilio Bollati, new Italian consul to Atlanta, was enthusiastically received by members of the Il Circolo Italiano Tuesday night at the monthly meeting of the society at the Atlanta Athletic club. Guido Negri, president of the society, acted as master of ceremonies. The evening was devoted to dancing.

In a short address in Italian, Dr. Bollati said that in this, his first meeting with the Italo-Americans of Atlanta, he was pleased at their wonderful reception and cordial welcome. He expressed his thanks to the club, and said he hopes soon to be able to see all of the members at his consulate.

The purpose of the consulate here is not only to strengthen relations between Italians and Americans in Atlanta, but also it is to let the people know Italy as she is today.

Dr. Bollati declared. The consulate is expected to bring out the remarkable work of the fascist government which has been accomplished through cooperation, order and discipline. Dr. Bollati expects to make the consulate not only an official place, but also a center of Italian culture in order that he may bring to the people the message of Italy's enlightenment, and present commercial, industrial and artistic studies of Italy, he said.

Mussolini is the greatest living figure in Italy at the present moment, and together with King Victor Emmanuel is striving to uplift Italy and to bring it to the point of economy and social content, Dr. Bollati said.

Dr. George Raffalovich, secretary of the Rockefeller foundation in Italy, political economist, Italian correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, and correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph in Geneva during the world war, who is now living in Atlanta and is writing a text book on political economy, was a guest at the meeting.

The society was organized about six months ago, and has a large membership. N. E. Savini is secretary.

Mrs. Caldwell Visits Man Shot By Her Husband

Suffering from gunshot wounds inflicted late Monday afternoon by Robert H. Caldwell, Jr., 56-year-old real estate operator, J. H. Hanson, 20-year-old contractor, was reported to be improving slowly at Grady hospital Tuesday night.

Caldwell, in custody at police station, was still incoherent and apparently dazed or suffering from severe shock late Tuesday night. Police who are investigating the shooting indicated that it is their belief that Caldwell shot Hanson while suffering from mental disorder.

Mrs. Caldwell visited the injured man at Grady hospital Tuesday morning, forcing her way into the room after nurses, acting under orders, had denied her entrance. After some minutes with Hanson she left in tears. While at the hospital she expressed the belief that the shot which struck Hanson down was intended for her. She alleged that her husband, from whom she is estranged, once before had attempted her life.

The shooting occurred on Gordon street, near Peoples, shortly after 5 o'clock in the afternoon at a time when the street was crowded with persons on their way home. Mrs. Caldwell and Hanson were sitting in the latter's car and, according to Mrs. Caldwell, were discussing a building which he was to erect for her when Caldwell drew up in his car and produced the shotgun. As he pointed the gun at Mrs. Caldwell Hanson is said to have thrown himself between them and received a portion of the charge of shot.

REPLYING TO YOUR REQUEST WILL SAY THAT THREE AND THREE QUARTERS CAR LOADS OF OUR FURNITURE STOCK WAS SHIPPED TO ATLANTA GEORGIA.

THE WILLSON CHASE COMPANY E B WILLSON PRESIDENT.

What Is The Answer?

Prior to June 15th furniture, the invoice value of which was $15,000.00, costing the Atlanta dealer $7,500.00, was shipped to Atlanta. The handling, crating and freight charges on this 50c on the dollar purchase added 12% to its cost. Mather Brothers have purchased nearly a half million dollars' worth of distressed furniture in Florida during the past eleven months at an average of 36c on the dollar.

As an advertising subject distressed Florida furniture is interesting. It may attract trade temporarily.

The shipment to Atlanta of distressed Florida furniture costing as much as 50c on the dollar is an economic impossibility.

It cannot be done except at a loss. During July and August more than $4,000.00 was spent in advertising $7,500.00 worth of distressed St. Petersburg furniture.

Nevertheless, not one dollar's worth of distressed Florida furniture has been shipped to Atlanta since the advertising began.

THE WILLSON-CHASE STOCK WILL CONTINUE TO STAY WHERE IT BELONGS — IN ST. PETERSBURG.

MATHER BROTHERS will continue to offer honest furniture values, newest styles, conservative patterns, fair prices, and on reasonable terms. You are not required to pay cash.

Ruth Hits Homer To Give Yanks Third Straight Over Macks

Athletics Bow To Champions By 5-3 Count

Swat King Pokes One in Eighth Inning Rally.

BY WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN.
New York, September 11.—(AP)—With 40,000 fervent fans roaring for the kill, the world champion Yankees battered down the Philadelphia Athletics 5 to 3 today, and just about clinched the American league title by pushing Connie Mack's struggling warriors 2 1/2 games behind them. It was the Athletics' third straight defeat in this super-crucial series.

The kill was put off until the eighth inning. The Yankees then tied the score with none out, and George Herman Ruth, waddling to the plate, found his home-run pal, Lou Gehrig, on base. Connie Mack and Bob Greer elected to fight it out with the giant Bambino rather than frank him to first base, and the battle began.

The Babe Crashes Homer.
The Babe, seeing a chance, strove to cross the opposition by bunting the first one, but it was foul on the third base line by a shade. Mr. Ruth necked a called ball, and then it happened.

Yes, into his own right field bleachers it rode for home run No. 49, with all the earmarks of a peanut fastened upon it. More than 40,000 strangely partisan New York throats bellowed joyously and almost as many pairs of hands reached for straw hats with which to shower a welcome upon the triumphant procession of Lou and the Babe.

Now that the Yankees have been threatened, New York seems to want them to win. The best form of Connie Mack, the old master, stood on the steps of the Athletic dug-out with a worried wrinkle upon his brow as he peered out at the bedlam and the triumph of the enemy. He was visibly shaken by the blast which shattered his dreams of baseball empire. He then steadied himself and deployed his troops for a final assault upon young Henry Johnson, arch-enemy of the 1925 Mackmen.

Veterans Called Out.
The ninth inning saw Ty Cobb, Eddie Collins and Wally French stride up in turn, first line reserves of the beaten Athletics. These names, as names alone, would have been enough to frighten the average young pitcher out of the box as soon as two years ago, but not Johnson today.

The young Floridian got Ty on a hoist to Koenig, Eddie on a foul fly to the same gentleman of the defense, and French on a weak pop to Meusel. The Yankees had won, and led the worried Mackmen by two and one-half games.

All that remains is that fourth game of this now not-so-crucial engagement tomorrow and the final tally through the next 15 games for the Yanks in the pennant race and 13 for the Macks. The trail is long to the end of the pennant rainbow and the pot of world series gold, and the millions of Mack are fired!

If they can beat Hoyt with Earnshaw tomorrow, their case will be ever so much brighter. But what seems to be the use against killers who already have taken 16 out of 21?

Until the eighth inning kill, Robert Moses Grove seemed to have a firm grip on the Yankee jinx which now has cost him six of the seven games he has lost this season. Moses was headed along the primrose path, reaching for his 23rd victory and his fifth straight.

Mackmen Grab Lead.
The Athletics at the outset gave him a two-run lead. Johnson hit Haas with one gone in the first, and Cochrane thundered forth the first of his three hits—a soaring triple over Bob Meusel's head. Cochrane himself

Voigt, Johnston Stage Great Duel in Stretch at Brae Burn

Large Field Begins Qualifying Today in City Golf Meet

Medal Winner Is Brilliant In Home Drive

Grantland Rice Praises Voigt for His Fight To Win Low Score Honors.

BY GRANTLAND RICE.
Brae Burn Country Club, West Newton, Mass., September 11.—One of the greatest qualifying duels in the history of American golf developed today when George Voigt, of North Hills, L. I., and Jimmy Johnston, of the St. Pauli wallpaper, came tearing down the stretch. Each had a 71 on Monday. They were still all square when they came to the seventeenth hole today in the second round. On this 257 par three hole each had a four. Voigt hooked to the right. Johnston sliced to the right. So they stood all square as they faced the 440-yard eighteenth hole, with a carry of 210 yards staring each golfer squarely in the face. This hole is a hard one and requires a stout well-hit tee shot with a lot of carry. It calls for a fine iron shot to the green, a golf who has been playing the finest golf in the championship, had a four for 14 after starting with a six on an easy par four hole. Voigt hit a fine tee shot and then rammed a number four iron to within 10 feet of the cup. A year ago at Minikahda, he had failed to qualify. Now he had a curling, sloping, slanting 10-foot putt to win the medal. He stepped up and sank his putt for a three. This gave Voigt 145 for the two rounds. Jimmy Johnston then had a three to tie Voigt, but the best he could get was a four and the St. Pauli star had to sink an eight-footer to get his four.

A Great Performance.
The battle between this pair to win the medal was the big feature of the two qualifying rounds. But the next feature was Doc Willing's performance today. On Monday Willing, who is the star of the far away northwest, had an 83, he figured that he needed a 72 to tie for the afternoon to emerge in select golf society. When he came to the long short seventh hole, 257 yards in length, he needed two three's for his 72. Those last two holes are a hard three-four finish. Willing had been fighting with the courage of a wounded tiger all the way around. As he stood on the seventeenth tee, facing the long, narrow down-hill slope with trouble on either side, the northwestern champion hit one of the greatest tee shots I have ever seen. He planted a full drive as straight as a rifle shot to within three feet of the cup and dropped his putt for a two. He had his four on the long eighteenth for a 72. It is one thing to get a 72 when the sun is shining and the sky is blue. It is quite another to get a 72 over a long, tricky course when you have to make it. I consider this a great round today the finest feat of this championship. It was the final word in nerve and courage and stout hearted golfing skill. I consider that he started that he had to get a 72 to be sure. "I'll fight my heart out to get it," he said. And he finished two-four in a pinch on holes that were 257 and 450 yards in length.

Outlines Leading Stars.
Voigt and Johnston have been the stars of the field and have played by far the best golf. But Willing's round was the great dramatic outbreak the despairing drive of a golfer almost crowded out of a picture who had made up his mind he was going to qualify. This qualifying struggle today was a terrific thing. Most of the stars survived, after Voigt and Johnston at 143 and 144; Don Moe, the 19-year-old Portland star, was third at 149. Here is a golfer to be watched, Ross Homerville, the Canadian champion, was fourth at 150. In fifth place you find the name of Bobby Jones, who has yet to hit his top stride. George Von Elm, of Detroit and J. Wolcott Brown, New Jersey champion, were next at 152. This golf championship is an international and international. Stars from the east, the midwest, the Pacific coast, Great Britain and Canada make up the list. Great Britain broke through into match play with three men—Perkins, the British champion, who had 135; Beck, at 155; and Storey, at 156. Canada crashed in with Ross Somerville, a match play star, and young Gordon Taylor.

The northwest entered the show with Doc Willing, Frank Dolph and Don Moe, a trio who will make a lot of trouble. Don Stern, the fourth entry from the northwest, tied for last place at 157 and lost out when he took three putts on the playoff.

The south's strong entries, of course, were Bobby Jones and Watts Gunn. The leading entries from the midwest were Von Elm, Chick Evans, Jimmy Johnston, Johnny Dawson, Rudy Knepper, D. J. Armstrong and Johnny Ames.

The east has Jess Sweetser, Francis Quimet, Max Marston, George Dawson, Fred Wright, Ray Gorton, Ducky Yates, Phil Finley, Maurice McCarthy and Tommy Taylor among others.

Two Have Close Calls.
McCarthy and Tommy Taylor had a close call. They were in the play-off crowd where seven golfers tied for last place, with four to qualify at 157. Tommy Taylor got his four. McCarthy, the intercollegiate champion, smashed a fine tee shot through the gathering New England dusk, dropped his pitch shot 12 feet from the cup and got his three. Ben Stein had a great chance to bring the northwest in with four qualified out of four.

ED CROWLEY TO COACH ENDS AT FURMAN THIS SEASON

Greenville, S. C., September 11.—(AP)—Ed Crowley, captain of the Georgia Tech 1927 Golden Tornado and one of the greatest ends in the south last season, became end coach of the Furman football team. He reported here from Washington where he was released this week by the Washington Americans after spending the summer with that club as a reserve third baseman. The former Tech star is from Watkinsonville, Ga.

Crowley had never played football before entering Tech as a freshman. Coach Dad Amis, also a former Tech star, said that Coach Alexander, of Tech, recommended Crowley as one of the greatest ends he had ever seen on the gridiron.

The SPORTLIGHT
ALONG THE PRECIPICE.
You are likely to hear three rousing cheers Wednesday night from those who figure they have a chance to win at Brae Burn—if they are not unscathed.

Wednesday is their heavy day. Two eighteen-hole rounds always mean trouble. I recall two years ago at Baltusrol, watching George Von Elm and Elsworth Augustus come to the seventeenth green. There was something of a flutter in the gallery waiting around this green when it was announced they were all square. The seventeenth is a long par 5 hole, and they were both on in 3, about twenty-five feet from the cup. Augustus putted first and sunk his 4. This left Von Elm dangling on the edge of the precipice. He had to sink his twenty-five-footer or almost certainly pass from the championship in his first match. His long putt also disappeared into the tin, and he then went on to beat Augustus on the nineteenth green and win his first amateur championship. But you can see here the extremely thin and narrow margin between failure and fame. Often it is thinner than a needle. Von Elm might have made a brilliant putt, rimmed the cup and lost his first match. Jones later he was to beat Bobby Jones in the final round. And it might be called that twenty-five-footer must carry a certain element of luck, no matter how well you hit the ball.

On that same Wednesday, Bobby Jones had to sink a twelve-footer, while Dick Jones was missing a three-footer for Bobby to win his first Wednesday match by a single hole. The excitement was even thicker at Minikahda last summer, where McCarthy almost nipped Jones and Harry Legg bumped Von Elm out of the championship. In these eighteen-hole matches the rabbits have their chance against the tigers. They may not be as fine a championship test, but they stir up most of the week's excitement. After that the big guns usually have their massacre. The championship is why the championship is essential for offering their cheers as they survive to move along into the thirty-six-hole tests.

Harvard and 1928.
Arnold Horween comes to something approaching a decisive situation, as far as his coaching system goes. This will make his last season as a Crimson director, and there is a good chance that Harvard will be more of a factor than his teams were in 1926 and 1927. The material is not wonderful, but it is first class. Horween has two veteran backs in French and Guarnaccia and promising talent in Potter, Batchelor and Hightly. Potter is the big youngster who got away to a nice start last fall, and with the experience packed away in one or two hard games, he should be worth watching this fall. Horween's main job will be to build up a strong line and beat a heady quarterback who can drive the team along. Few on the outside appreciate how much this means. The quarterback, handling the team action, can be the difference between success and failure in game after game.

It Can't Be Done.
Ten or twelve years ago Fielding Yost announced that he would like to retire from football coaching—if he could. "Somehow, I can't," he finally added. Two years ago he moved back into the directorship of Michigan athletics, with Dad Weiman acting as head coach. But Mr. Yost was a restless look those years on the outside of Michigan wars, and now he is back again. They can't quit. Stagg has known more than thirty-five years of coaching. Pop Warner, more than thirty and Yost about thirty-two.

Tad Jones is one of the few who retired in his prime. You'll still be hearing about Jackie Rockne in 1940. It took Jack Heisman, of Pennsylvania, Georgia Tech, etc., about thirty-seven years to plan his retirement, and now he is all set to spin his experiences for "Collier's" in an early series. Probably no other coach has covered as much ground in the east, south, southwest and middle west. Heisman's football experience goes back to the day when the navy, for example, used nautical terms for signals, before any numerical codes had been devised.

In attempting to describe the battle of Brae Burn over the radio for the remainder of the week there is at least some comfort in the thought that no restless listener can break in with "Yes, but let me tell you what happened to me on the fourteenth hole in a match I had with Jack Hoozies." The only way to suppress the other golfer's story is to catch him on the receiving end of the air.

Leading Cards
The best cards turned in Tuesday were as follows:
Von Elm, George Voigt, Perkins, Don Moe, Sweetser, Willing, Gunn, Storey and Jimmy Dawson. Von Elm has the lead in the first round and if he wins he must then face the winner of the Perkins-Moe match.

Voigt beats McPhail in the forenoon but must meet the winner of the Sweetser-Armstrong battle. Bobby Jones, in the lower bracket, takes on J. Wolcott Brown at a starter and then comes upon Ray Gorton or R. F. Nettledahl, the only public links golfer to make the grade. Jones is in the same bracket with Quimet and Jimmy Johnston and Ross Somerville but the hardest fighting will be in the other half. If the dope runs true to form, which it sometimes doesn't, Von Elm and Voigt should battle out the semi-finals in one bracket as Jones faces either Quimet or the winner of the Somerville-Dolph affair.

From now on it is all match play and these two 18-hole matches on Wednesday may upset any number of calculations. They came near eliminating Jones last year. They dropped Vol Elm at Minikahda. They are a lot of surprises—replete with shocks. The rabbit here always has a better chance against the tiger, if the rabbit can get away to a good start.

The day again was ideal, the sun was warm, the sky was blue and a fair wind ruffled across the course. The big showdown starts on Wednesday whereby nightfall only eight of the 32 starters will be left to dream of another day.

SCRIMMAGE BOOKED TODAY FOR PETRELS

BY FRED MEACHIN.
The Oglethorpe university gridiron candidates have been hard at work for the last week and are gradually rounding into shape for a strenuous campaign.

Coach Harry Robertson seems optimistic over his prospects for a winning 11 this year, but is not definitely assured of his line power. There were several big losses from the forward wall last year, and these vacancies must be made to service Frank Gordy and Bill Perkins will be hard to replace, as will John Goldsmith and Roy Hancock. Major Gutrie's absence at guard will be keenly felt. The backfield possibilities look more favorable. With Cy Bell at quarterback, Anos Martin and Lyman Fox at halves and Lindsey Vaughn at full, the Petrel mentors have little backfield worries. There is also an abundance of reserve material in this department. Claude Herrin, Jenny Woodward and Charlie McKissick, last season's stars, will fill in admirably in the role of ball toters.

A light session of line scrimmage was gone through with Monday afternoon at Hernando field. The boys were clad in full harness and showed up fairly well, as good as could be expected this early in the season.

Scrimmage Today.
This afternoon a real, rough and tumble scrimmage is booked with Coach Chestnut's freshmen affording the opposition for the varsity. Another lively scrimmaging affair will take place Friday, according to advances from Robertson.

All of the candidates have reported for practice, making one of the largest squads ever to assemble for early fall practice on the Oglethorpe grid. There are some 40-odd aspirants trying out for varsity berths and a larger number of freshmen have been issued uniforms. As the training progresses, however, this number will be considerably reduced.

There are two graduates from the freshman team of '27 who are likely to see much regular service on the varsity 11. "Curly" Fulton, former Atlanta prep star, has been showing up mightily good in the practices, and will probably be one of the real Albert Church, product of Orlando high, will also see plenty of action as a varsity man. These two boys were mainstays in the last year's team, and their presence in the Petrel forward wall should prove sufficient to atone for some of the losses of last year's stars.

Ends Look Good.
"Monk" Clement and Asa Wall look the good bets for the wing positions. Clement played in end position last year until he was injured early in the season. Wall has been shifted from fullback to Sims, a veteran of two seasons, will form the real aggressiveness of the line at tackle. Hoke Bell, Buford and Coffee have been moved to the guard positions.

Captain-elect Joe Hutson will fill the pivot position with Jake Malsby alternately assisting. Feinberg, one of the best linemen in the state, will probably be called into service in several games.

So, after a careful perusal of the Oglethorpe grid possibilities, it seems that the Stormy Petrels will once again wing their way through the windy clouds of opposing teams and fly to a victorious goal during the season of 1928.

City's Best Is Entered In Tourney

Charlie Black Will Not Defend 1927 Title in Play at Druid Hills.

BY FRED MEACHIN.
Starting at 7:30 o'clock this morning and continuing throughout the afternoon more than four-score of Atlanta's premier golfers will tee off for a long trek over the beautiful Druid Hills course which will lead to a trophy emblematic of the city golf championship.

Up until last night 82 of the city's best golfers had entered the tourney and will start qualifying today, and it is expected that good scores will lead the qualifying rounds.

The Druid Hills course is in perfect condition for the tournament and many of the entries have been playing practice rounds for the past two days, getting in form for the competitions. It is a rather difficult task to predict the entries who will land in the select championship flight of 16, but the following are and birdie men should be among the favorites: Lee Fowler, medalist in last year's tourney; Berrien Moore, runner-up in the recent Radium Springs tournament; Will Gunn, Vezay Rainwater, Chick Liddle, L. R. Hunter, Bob Gardner, Jimmy West, Arch Martin, Dick Garlington, P. G. Hanahan, Fred Minnich and a few others.

Match Play Thursday.
The qualifying rounds will be completed this afternoon and the pairings for the first round matches will be made immediately after. The first round matches will start Wednesday morning and the eliminations will continue until Saturday afternoon when the championship match will be played. It is not definitely known how many will be playing over a real first-class golf course, one that is far superior to any public course in the city.

Many handsome trophies have been offered by the city golf association for the winners and runners-up in the various flights. These prizes will be among the most valuable ever offered by the committee and the fight for their possession will be merily waged each day during the week.

JOHNSON ONLY STAR MISSING AT GEORGIA

BY BOB SHERROD.
Athens, Ga., September 11.—The Georgia Bulldogs roster was practically complete on the second day of practice. H. F. Johnson, quarterback and member of the famous "Georgia Four," seems to be the only brighter light who is missing. Johnson is playing baseball with Valdosta in one of those "little world series" down in south Georgia. He will be in camp in the next few days.

Harvey Hill, Armin Waugh, Tommy Gerdone and Joe Martin showed up Tuesday. Hill will probably do a great deal of the Bulldog punting this fall, having showed good form in the spring workouts. Waugh is a former Atlanta prep star who made good with the freshmen last year. Gerdone was one of the red devils of last year, while Joe Martin is one of the strongest candidates for the big hole caused by the departure of Tom Nash from last year.

Coach Mehre sent his men through a signal practice this afternoon, teaching them plays which had been illustrated by a blackboard lecture im-

Narlesky Is Bought By Boston Red Sox

Boston, September 11.—(United News.)—The Boston Red Sox have purchased William E. Narlesky, shortstop, from the Mobile club of the Southern association, it was announced tonight. He will report to the Sox in the spring of 1929. He is a right-handed hitter and thrower and up to date has batted .300 for Mobile.

Only a little more than three weeks remain before the opening of the southern conference season. Georgia's first game comes on October 6, when the Bulldogs puting this fall, having showed good form in the spring workouts. Waugh is a former Atlanta prep star who made good with the freshmen last year. Gerdone was one of the red devils of last year, while Joe Martin is one of the strongest candidates for the big hole caused by the departure of Tom Nash from last year.

YOUNG STRIB ILL AT MACON; BOUT IS OFF

Macon, Ga., September 11.—(AP)—W. J. (Young) Stribling was taken to a private hospital this afternoon suffering from what doctors feared was influenza. He has a high temperature. Attending physicians said that the young heavyweight pugilist contracted a cold encountering sudden changes in temperature, due to riding in automobiles and airplanes, they believed. He contracted a cold just before he fought Johnny Squires in New York, but fever did not develop until today. Doctors said that it would be three days, at least, before Stribling will be able to leave the hospital. His fight with Frankie White, scheduled for Friday night in Grand Rapids, Mich., was cancelled tonight because of his illness.

The Taming of Elizabeth

By WINIFRED BOGGS

INSTALLMENT LXIII. THE HYPOCRITE.

Mark asked Stephen what Mrs. Vestington said in her letter to him. "She wrote the letter of one who had been injured and treated with the basest ingratitude. She could not understand Elizabeth acting in such a peculiar and sly way; nor why she should run away instead of giving proper notice."

"The successful hypocrite deceives himself as well as the world," retorted Mark. "She seemed such a pretty, dainty little thing. Yet Elizabeth imagined herself afraid of her and that the place was haunted. She looks ill, too."

"The worst terrors come from our nerves and imagination," said Mark. "I think, 'realities pass, their terror dies; the other is always with us.' Elizabeth suffered just as much as if the things were true. She is a sensitive, highly strung little creature and it was a damned shame to leave her shut up in that place." He spoke with heat.

"I shall never forgive myself," replied Stephen in a low voice. "She has been hurt by the experience, changed by it. Julia Vestington warned me, but I thought he was unduly prejudiced against his aunt on account of the money business and a family feud. These are his quarrels, I think. The poor fellow drinks and I did not take him seriously."

Julian, looking yellow and depressed, had no welcome for his visitors, being solely occupied in watching the clock that he might venture another hair of the dog that bit him. He had got himself to believe that as long as he waited till his stated hours he was not really drinking and had the thing well under control.

Stephen introduced Mark and then plunged into the business that had brought him. "Elizabeth ran away," he said briefly. "Would you mind telling us all you know about your aunt. She seems to have behaved—oddly."

Julian gave a harsh laugh. "She probably acted exactly like herself. I know she is a megalomaniac, but really, I don't know much else. It's only recently she has recognized my existence, mainly to make use of me. I believe she married some chap called Lester, younger brother of the James Lester who was in love with the girl whose tragedy took place at Mount Grange, and that he pegged out pretty soon, since when she has had companion after companion. It was when the supply seemed running short, or she got landed with the type for which she had no use, that she wrote to me to select 'em personally for their youth and vitality. I did not think much of it at first and got the girls all right, but when they ran away or were sent away and returned nervous wrecks making wild accusations, well, I got thinking. I wondered if it were the place or my aunt or both. I believe now it is both. I sent her two girls not so young, strong minded, insensitive, selfish, and she sent them back and cut off my allowance. Then Elizabeth turned up and I did all I could to dissuade her, painted the picture in the blackest colors, with the result she insisted upon going and departed next day. I ran down to see how she was getting on and was not quite satisfied. I warned Whitby, but—" He ended with a shrug.

"I was to blame, very much to blame," said Stephen. "Julian was looking at the clock, and as the hour struck went to the cupboard and poured himself out a liberal dose of brandy. 'Have anything?' he asked casually, gulping it down. Both men shook their heads. 'Well, I take very little and that only seldom," he said defiantly, pouring himself out another portion, "but I need a pick-me-up. Sure you won't have a spot?" He held up his glass, gay and genial again. "Well, here's to young Elizabeth; to the mouse that has escaped the cat. You're her guardian and your job should be easy enough. Take her out and about and she'll be married and off your hands before you say Jack Robinson."

"I am not in the least anxious to have her off my hands," returned Stephens, resentfully. "That makes no odds; she'll be off 'em just the same. The difficulty will be to choose among the suitors. She's got all the tricks of the trade—has the young Elizabeth!"

The bony, hard faced old woman opened the door of her tiny, shabby flat herself. "You've come about my sister-in-law's latest companion," she said. "I noticed you on the station and very nearly came up to you and begged you to take the child back with you, but she was looking well and happy. Don't tell me anything has happened to her—the brightest, prettiest and youngest of them all?"

"She ran away, or perhaps anything might have happened," said Mark. "We want you to tell us—Mr. Whitby is Elizabeth's guardian—all you know about in the first hand."

"I wish I knew more seriously," said Miss Lester, "but it is mostly surmise and second hand. I had her begin at the beginning. There were three of us, a poor clergyman's children—my eldest brother Jim, then me, then Cyril. Jim disappeared after that tragic affair at Mount Grange, and went under. He has long been dead. In my youth I knew one or two contemporaries of Angela's, girls who had been with her from their school days, and it was always the same story—her greed for possession, not only of earthly goods but of people. They must have no other friends, no other intimacies, than her. Then, when they ceased to amuse her, she dropped them, and always it was some one younger and fresher she took up. Her reality was always enormous; I think it always fed on others, unconsciously, I believe. These contemporaries of mine were living very quietly. Cyril and I, in a tiny cottage, Cyril made an art and with a great talent. There was, however, no money for lessons and he was quite untalented. James had disappeared and the Mount Grange was for sale. We met her at a fete given in the neighborhood, she staying at a big house on the other side of Mount Hollow with her latest 'find' in the way of friendships. Cyril was just 21 and Angela was over 40, but very pretty, always beautifully dressed, and looking like a girl. We were very flattered when she took other interest in us, and rather fascinated by her. I was amazed when she fell madly in love with Cyril but perhaps not ill pleased."

The ninth was also easy and turned with a 37, two strokes par.

On the long tenth his tee shot in the rough at the left and his second 100 yards short of the green, laid his pitch shot 15 feet from the pin and canned the putt for his birdie of the round. The eleventh was a natural and the twelfth passed the picture through Robert might have had a birdie two strokes but he lodged in a hole on the green he was forced to use a masher for first putt.

He had a good chance for a birdie on the long fourteenth but missed an eight-foot putt and took a par. The fifteenth and sixteenth went in pars and he faced the task of going in at par figures on the last two

He was a bit careless with his shot on the 255-yard seventeenth. It hooked into the crowd at the top of the green. It hit a spectators' lodge on the side of the bank. The trap lay between the ball and the club. Bob chose to play safely back the front of the green. He fluted the shot, however, and it lodged the end of the trap. It looked like five, but his half-blast from the trickled across the green to within a few inches of the cup and he had to putt again. He failed to make it.

This wood again lined on the hole and he sliced to the rough at right in some trees. He played safe out to the fairway and took a five a 74. This gave him a total of 1 safely within the qualifying mark a long way from the low medal.

Probably nobody ever worked harder for a 75 than little W. Gunn did today. He went to the tee this morning knowing that he wanted to master this mean course if he wanted to qualify and he mastered it after one of the finest fights staged on a golf course.

A few salient figures indicate what kind of golf Watts was forced to shoot for his score. He had less than seven on eight greens.

still been a 75. His bad break on the three-putt green today, where he had five yesterday. His putter was working well today. If it hadn't been, score might have been anything from 85 to 95.

At the start of the round he appeared to be going wonderfully well, reeling off the first three holes in four without mishap nor unusual incident, then he took a five on the fourth when his second shot was short of the green and his chip was short of the pin. The seventh hole his putter fail for the only time during the round and he took three putts from about 30 feet for a five. On the "long short" eighth he hooked a tee shot to a mound at the left of the green and his chip was 15 feet from the pin. His first putt stopped hardly an inch from the pin and took a four to go two over. On the ninth only another great recovery saved him from losing another stroke. His drive was good, but his second shot failed to top the rise to the green and rolled back down the slope several yards. He studied the shot carefully and chipped dead for a par hole to turn in 37. Another such score

On the long tenth his drive found trouble and his second went barely 100 yards down the rough again. His third was off the green to the right but he chipped three feet from the pin and held the putt for a second.

11th Ordinary Par.
The eleventh was an ordinary four, then on the twelfth he played one of the finest holes of the remarkable round. His tee shot came down in a deep trap at the left of the green close to the bank and the ball was generally buried in the sand. His perfect blast shot laid him six feet from

Goes Over Par.
He went over par on the long fourteenth when his tee shot went to the rough at the right, his second went out and his third over the green to the left. His chip back was short and his back two strokes in the hole.

On the 311-yard fifteenth his drive was six feet short of the trap guarding the green. It was a 300-yard putt with a strong cross wind. His chip was short and he took two putts for a par four. He also took a par

NEW YORK, September 11.—(AP)—

Selling continued in the cotton market today, promoted by relatively easy prices and favorable weather reports. Prices were low for ground for the movement, December selling off to 17.71 and 41 points lower and 144 points below the high level last Saturday, closing at 17.84. The general market closed steady at net prices of 18 to 24 points.

The market opened steady at declines of 7 to 12 points and showed net losses of about 20 to 27 points under southern selling, further liquidation and local selling. Extensive trade buying was reported on the decline, while there was also covering but demand was supplied on rallies of a few points and the market eased again in the forenoon. October selling off to 17.92 and March to 17.13, or 25 to 30 points below yesterday's closing quotations.

Offerings Subside.

Offerings then subsided and a flurry of covering caused rallies of several points from the lowest. Demand failed to broaden into a general market and the market weakened again in late trading.

The favorable view of weather conditions seemed to stimulate the selling, while some early buyers for a rally were reported to be liquidating on the decline. October sold off from 18.04, the best price October traded to 17.92, while March declined to 17.85, net losses of 30 to 37 points. Last prices showed rally of 8 to 12 points from the lowest on covering.

Opening Is Active.

Trading was active at the start, and there was a surge of selling on the afternoon decline, but business tended to taper off on the rally and after the first hour the volume of trading was smaller. The bullish sentiment which appeared to be inspired by the government crop report of last Saturday was considered largely responsible for the increase in offerings on the advances. Considerable trade buying was reported in early trading, but was said to be mostly on scale down orders.

COTTON PRICES SET

NEW LOW FOR DROP.

New Orleans, September 11.—(AP)—Cotton prices were lower for the present movement today under a continuation of selling on the recent increased government crop estimate, increased hedge selling and liquidation in Liverpool. December contracts traded off to 17.15, or 32 points net down, but considerable covering in final trading carried the price level up about $1 a bale above the lows and the delivery closed at 17.31.

The general market closed steady,

14 to 17 points net down.

Liverpool also continued to feel the effects of the government estimate that came in 11 points lower than due at the opening here. First trades showed losses of 14 to 15 points on selling in sympathy with the drop in the English market. Local prices continued downward after the start under the impetus of hedging and general liquidation. October sold off to 17.17, and December and January to 17.22, or 22 to 23 points below the previous close.

Price trade buying developed on the scale down and prices rallied seven points but a renewal of liquidation by longs and continued hedging supplied the demand and carried prices off 26 to 28 points below yesterday's close, October traded at 17.13, December 17.17 and January 17.21.

After midsession the decline

extended to levels 32 to 33 points under the previous close but it was checked by covering probably induced by uncertainty over what the weekly weather and crop summary due tomorrow will show. October rallied from 17.06 to 17.24 and December from 17.14 to 17.31 and closed at or near the highs.
